Catholic Bishop Serves Nation

As the battered and nerve-wracking week just past drew to a close, a Roman Catholic bishop did the nation a great and long-needed service by denouncing Sen. Joe McCarthy, a fellow Catholic, as a headline hunter who had victimized Americans and the country in a time of great challenge when national unity desperately is needed.

The bishop is Bernard J. Sheil. He is auxiliary prelate to Samuel Cardinal Stritch, archbishop of Chicago.

"Although the church takes no position, and will not, on such a matter of public controversy, the church does take a position on lies, calumny, the absence of charity and calculated deceit," he said.

Bishop Sheil said the Kremlin would be pleased if this nation were filled with hysteria and suspicion.

He said that congressional committees have done good work and will do good work in the future, and added:

"But when they are cynically used to trap headlines rather than spies, they mock themselves and they mock us, too.

"America today is faced with a world challenge," Bishop Sheil said. "It's about time we started taking that challenge seriously and drop the cops-and-robbers game that has been going on."

Service

Bishop Sheil has done all of us a great and timely service.

This nation will die the moment its fabric is destroyed. Its fabric is woven out of the fibers with the greatest tensile strength—the fibers of live and let live. In this country all faiths and political parties work free from interference. In all wars, all faiths have come together in defense of the country which is everybody's country—not just the country of a privileged class or a particular faith.

Through the years there have been organizations of violence and hate which have sought to divide us. There have been agitations against Roman Catholics. The old APA, which the fiery Texan called "Brann, the Iconoclast," ridiculed in his paper as the "AP-Apes," sought to make this a country in which the Protestant and Catholic churches were at war. The Know-Nothings became a similar organization. The Ku Klux Klan of the '20s was merely the "Know-Nothing" party in robes.

Through all the history of this great country of ours there have been religious and political extremists—Protestant, Roman Catholic and Jewish—who have blindly torn at the fabric of our country. Today there are extremists in the field of race relations who have put their prejudices ahead of national welfare.

Always the vast store of common sense and of proportion have brought us through.

Danger

But not in our time has there been so much danger as in the dilemma of Joe McCarthy and his methods. The Communists were, and are, delighted with him. They like to fish in troubled waters. And he keeps them troubled. Those who seek to create troubles between Protestants, Jews and Roman Catholics work happily within his orbit. They managed to accuse the Protestant clergy of being largely Communist stooges. They sought to make Roman Catholics believe that the attack on McCarthy was made because he, himself, was a member of that church.

We saw Americans made afraid of one another. We saw Americans lose faith in their country, its form of government, its mission, its bill of rights, its very soul. We began to doubt ourselves and our future. There were attacks on our schools. There were attempts to make us think in terms of scapegoats in religion and race. There was an organized effort to make of the McCarthy issue a contest between the two great divisions of the Christian church. There are those who try to make the Commandment read, "Thou shalt hate thy neighbor, and fear him."

Other Roman Catholic leaders, of course, have spoken against the McCarthy methods and the poison of them. So have those of the Jewish and Protestant faith.

Bishop Sheil's voice, one of the most respected in the nation, comes at a critical time. He has spoken strongly—he has done America—and its soul—much good.

Ike To Run In '56, Says GOP's Hall

WASHINGTON, April 11 (INS)—GOP National Chairman Leonard W. Hall predicted today that President Eisenhower will seek re-election to a second term in 1956.

Hall, appearing on NBC's "Youth Wants to Know" television program, also forecast a Republican victory in the congressional races next November.

The party leader was asked whether he believes Eisenhower's name will be on the ballot in 1956. He replied: "I certainly think so."

Hall did not amplify his statement.

TV SUPPORT

Concerning the President's role on behalf of Republican House and Senate candidates this fall, Hall said he anticipates that the chief executive will make national television appearances such as he made last Monday night on behalf of the party.

He also predicted that congressional enactment of the Eisenhower legislative program will insure GOP control of the House and Senate.

SEES PASSAGE

Hall said that the President's program is "going along in splendid fashion" in Congress and that most of it will be enacted before adjournment in August.

He reiterated his charges that the Democratic leadership is "left wing" and said the Democrats are "one-fourth Stevenson, one-fourth Dixiecrat and half scared."

Hogan and Snead Tied; Patton Dazzles Masters

By BERT PRATHER
Constitution Sports Writer

AUGUSTA, April 11 — Defending champion Ben Hogan and Slammin' Sam Snead sent the 18th Masters' tournament into extra innings here Sunday afternoon when they finished in a deadlock at 289 for the 72-hole grind over a damp Augusta National Golf Club course before a crowd estimated at 18,000.

Thus these two veteran warriors who last bumped heads in a tournament playoff in the Los Angeles Open in 1950, will square off at 2 p.m. here Monday in an 18-hole playoff, third in the history of this tournament.

Though Hogan and Snead will battle for the title, it remained for daring Billy Joe Patton to supply the thrills for the gallery. This compactly built 31-year-old Morganton, N.C., amateur who had astounded veteran followers of this tournament by winning the driving contest last Wednesday, tying for the lead opening day and leading the world's greatest at end of 36 holes, almost hit the jackpot Sunday.

Billy Joe finished third just one stroke behind the leaders with a 290, but that doesn't tell the story of this free-wheeling Tar Heel.

He lammed in a five iron shot for a hole-in-one on the 190-yard sixth hole to continue his almost fantastic play here. This brought on the largest gallery of the day and he rewarded them by shaving four strokes off par on the front nine to turn in 32 and appeared well on his way to becoming the first amateur in the tournament's history to capture the crown.

And he almost did it too, but his bold and daring play caught up with him on the 13th and 15th holes where he dropped three

BERLIN, April 11 (INS). Latest note on the "worker's paradise" behind the iron curtain:

French Smash 4 Rebel Attacks, Cling to Key Hill

HANOI, Indochina, April 11 (AP). The French clung grimly to newly won positions commanding the eastern rim of Dien Bien Phu today. They beat off desperate rebel efforts to break through at that vital point, only five-eighths of a mile from the heart of the fortress.

Within the past 24 hours the French have beaten back four counterattacks by thousands of rebels striving to regain the 1,200-foot hill from which they were routed yesterday in bloody hand-to-hand fighting.

The French seized the hill in a surprise infantry attack on the heels of a three-hour artillery barrage. Moving in behind a shield of tanks, the French smashed through a network of foxholes and winding trenches to route the rebels at bayonet point.

The Vietminh, who apparently had planned to use the hill as a jump-off point for a mass attack on the bastion, were quick to counterattack.

All-Out Aid Is Pledged To French

WASHINGTON, April 11 (AP)—Undersecretary of State Walter Bedell Smith today pledged all possible aid to French and native Indochinese forces fighting what he called a "modern Thermopylae" against the Communists at Dien Ben Phu.

He said the stake in Indochina is "human freedom of the masses of people" in Southeast Asia and stated that a Communist victory would threaten all of Asia, the Philippines, Australia, New Zealand, Malaya and Japan, with all their millions of people and valuable natural resources.

JOIN BATTLE

"Once the battle is joined," Smith said on the CBS television program, the American Week, "nothing should be withheld as long as success is possible."

He noted that Secretary of State Dulles even now is in London and Paris trying to force a "united will among the free nations" to block a Red victory and prevent the piecemeal fall of Southeast Asia to Communism.

Smith did not mention the possibility of sending American troops into Indochina.

The administration's immediate plan, highlighted by Dulles' trip to London and Paris, is to stiffen the allies for Indochinese negotiations at the Geneva conference April 26. France, obviously sick of the eight-year war, looks with favor on a negotiated peace.

ARMS AID

Smith said U.S. aid "isn't only in the form of guns, ammunition and materiel, but it is also in the form of support for the whole budgetary position of France due to the grave commitments that

PRINCETON, Ill., April 11 (AP)—A real dizzy, mixed-up kid is 3-year-old Larry Jensen. He's limp, too.

Larry, one of Mr. and Mrs. William Jensen's seven sons, stepped into his parents' clothes dryer Saturday. He went for a spin when his 4½-year-old brother, Gregory, happened by and turned on the machine.

Larry was rescued shortly afterward by his mother when she discovered the turn of events. She pulled out her son—bruised, giddy and overheated, but otherwise unharmed.

The Jensens bought a strong padlock for the dryer Sunday.

Envoy Sees Joint Peril

LONDON, April 11—Proclaiming the existence of a common danger in Indochina and a consequent need for intimate Anglo-American consultation, Secretary of State Dulles arrived here today.

Formal discussions between Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and Dulles will begin tomorrow. Their principal subject will be when and how the free world is to warn Communist China against further intervention in Indochina and against Communist political and military aggression elsewhere in southeast Asia.

BASIC ACCORD

Dulles, Sir Winston and Eden agree that such a warning must be issued. They differ on when it is to be made; whether before or after the Geneva conference which opens two weeks from tomorrow.

Tonight, Dulles began his effort to get British backing for prompt united front action when he talked to Eden over dinner at the home of U.S. Ambassador Winthrop Aldrich.

Eden offered the secretary of state a warm but noncommittal official welcome at London airport. But speakers representing the moderate and radical wings of the British Labor Party sharply criticized Dulles' visit and U.S. proposals for a declaration of a united front on Indochina.

LONDON GLAD

Mossadegh Fibs, Nibbles Secret Vittles

TEHRAN, Iran, April 11 (AP)—Ex-Premier Mohammed Mossadegh maintained tonight he is still on a hunger strike, but his chief prosecutor has branded him a secret cookie nibbler.

Mossadegh, whose one-session boycott of the army appeal court petered out when six officers fetched him from his room during the morning, appealed to the court:

"I can't stand up any longer. I'm too weak. Can I sit down and read my bill? I've not eaten."

But Brig. Gen. Hossein Azerhodeh, the prosecution, told the court: "He's been eating. He ate sweets last night in the darkness." Later he told a reporter: "He eats cookies, chocolate, and vitamin tablets when the guards are not looking."

ROKs Cling to Dream Of Unity, Moore Finds

By JIM PINSON

South Koreans, their spirit undaunted by the ravages of war, hold fast to their dream of a reunited country even while they struggle to rise from the ashes, Bishop Arthur J. Moore said Sunday.

The Georgia Methodist leader and one-time Bishop of East Asia and Korea returned home Sunday after spending a month in the war-torn country conferring with Korean Methodists on reconstruction problems.

"I do not know a single person from President Rhee to the humblest citizens," he declared, "who is not convinced that the reuniting of Korea will come to pass."

Korean Methodists, meeting in Seoul to elect a bishop, came forth with tangible evidence that they believe their prayers for a reunited country are soon to be answered.

"When time came to select their next meeting place in 1958," the bishop said, "someone proposed the North Korean capital Pyongyang, now held by the Communists. The delegates approved the choice by an overwhelming vote."

He said he found from talking with Rhee and other leaders that the prevailing view there is that Korea has become lost in the complicated game of international politics.

"They just don't understand," Bishop Moore said, "why we fought so hard to save their country and why we now hesitate to finish the job."

The clergyman said Rhee, "an old friend and a big Methodist," holds the admiration and support of his people despite the characteristic stubbornness that has

Killer Tries To Cheat Death Row But Is Cut Down on Prison Roof

TRENTON, N. J., April 11—(AP)—A condemned murderer made an "almost incredible" escape from the death house in state prison, but was cut down by a burst of machine gun fire and died today—two weeks before he was to have been executed.

A prison guard was suspended today because there were "some defects" in his story of how John L. Vaszorich managed to make the first escape in the history of the century-old death house.

Vaszorich broke out of death row last night but never actually got out of the prison itself. For hours he slinked through the shadows of the prison yard searching desperately for a way out while guards and local police hunted him.

Then he was spotted on the roof of the prison laundry.

A guard called on him to surrender, but the condemned killer decided he had nothing to lose and made a break for it.

A burst of machine gun fire caught him. Three slugs cut into his leg, side and arm. Two and a half hours later he died in the prison hospital.

John I. Van Note, 54, state prison guard overpowered by the condemned killer in his break, was suspended.

Alonzo Lanphear of Hamilton Township, another guard, collapsed and died of a heart attack during the search for Vaszorich.

Institutions Commissioner Sanford Bates said there were "some defects in Van Note's story that just don't make sense."

He described this first escape from the deathhouse as "almost incredible."

Vaszorich, sentenced to die for the slaying of Jeremiah Delagan, 60, during a $300 house robbery, used a prison weapon in overpowering Van Note in a fantastic break involving two other death row inmates, according to the guard's report to Dr. F. Lovell Bixby, director of correction and parole.

Bixby said Van Note reported that at 6:30 p.m. Saturday Vaszorich asked for two aspirins. The

Pravda Charges U.S. Plans To Raid China

Raps Greater Aid to French, Rebuilding of Japan's Army

MOSCOW, April 11 (AP)—The Communist Party organ Pravda said today the United States is interfering openly in the Indochinese war and preparing for an attack on China.

A Pravda editorial was the sharpest in a mounting campaign against U.S. activity in Asia.

The party organ represented Britain and France as being acutely concerned and rebellious over American interest in the Far East and especially Indochina. France was hailed as a great nation capable of making its own decisions.

SLAPS AT SUPPLIES

Accusing the United States of "taking an ever more active part in the war" in Indochina, Pravda said:

"The U. S. A. is sending planes, guns, tanks, shells, napalm. The U. S. A. is sending its pilots, who are taking part in military operations on the frontiers of China.

"The U. S. A. is hindering France by every means from starting negotiations with the government of the Viet Nam Democratic Republic for putting an end to the war."

The editorial contained paragraphs of bold black type to emphasize its major points. It was the clearest and strongest reiteration of recent anti-American attacks.

POINTS TO FORMOSA

Pravda said that in the Korean War U.S. planes attacked Chinese cities and villages. In 1950, it said, "American armed forces captured the island of Formosa" and American intelligence "is sending spying and diversionist bands to China."

On Formosa the Americans now are training troops for an attack on China, it said.

"The Americans are waging a psychological war and threatening to employ atomic weapons against the Chinese people," it went on.

"The Chinese volunteers with the Korean People's Army taught the interventionists a stern lesson by throwing their troops back to their starting point.

REBUILDING JAP ARMY

"Blinded by hatred for the Chinese People Republic through their defeat in Korea, their loss of military prestige and political authority, the American aggressors are planning new adventures on China's frontiers.

"They are interfering openly in the war which the French have waged for eight years against the peoples of Viet Nam, Laos and Cambodia."

Pravda said the Americans were rebuilding the Japanese army and increasing the military power of Japan "with the aim of invading the continent."

"On the eve of the Geneva conference," it said, "American diplomacy and propaganda is intensifying its provocative attacks against China."

Killed Babies To Marry, Mother Says

FAYETTEVILLE, W. Va., April 11 (AP)—An attractive young mother sat in a bleak jail cell today and said she burned her illegitimate twin sons to death a year ago "so I could get married."

Mrs. Gloria June Vandall, 23, waived a preliminary hearing yesterday and was held for the Fayette County grand jury on charges of arson and murder. She was returned to the jail without bond by Justice of the Peace Virgil Lyons.

Prosecutor Howard W. Carson said Mrs. Vandall admitted setting fire to her home at Meadow Bridge on April 18, 1953. Her 7-month-old sons, David and Daniel, and a niece died in the flames.

Mrs. Vandall calmly told a newsman that her fiance—now her husband—had told her he wouldn't marry her if he had to "raise someone else's kids."

"So," she said, "I had to get rid of them." She now is married to Dewey Vandall, a coal miner, and the couple has a 2-month-old daughter.

Mrs. Vandall was unmarried at the time of the fire, which destroyed the home. She told Carson she had "lived in hell" since then. Conscience-stricken, she gave herself up to officers Friday.

Yesterday, however, she expressed regret that she had made the confession. "If I had known what a mess I was getting into," she was quoted, "I wouldn't have turned myself in."

Carson quoted the woman that she set fire to a pile of newspapers and cardboard under the floor of the bedroom in which her twin sons and the niece, 4-year-old Charlotte Ann Gill, were sleeping.

"I intended to go back and get Charlotte out," she told a reporter, "but the place burned so fast I didn't have time." Charlotte Ann was the daughter of Mrs. Vandall's sister, who lived downstairs in the house.

Fire inspectors had ruled the blaze was accidental.

Elizabeth's Car Conks Out at Party, Queen Gets Lift in Lush U.S. Model

COLOMBO, Ceylon, April 11 (AP)—Queen Elizabeth went to the Prime Minister's garden party in a British sedan tonight but left in an American one.

While she and her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, walked among the 2,000 guests invited by Prime Minister Sir John Kotelawela, smoke started pouring from under the bonnet of the royal car. A short circuit burned out the wiring.

Attendants hurriedly removed the royal standard from the British car and put it on the air-conditioned American sedan.

This was the second incident of the day. Earlier a man in tattered clothing dashed through the crowd and threw himself on the road in front of the Queen's car. He was removed by police.

The Queen opens parliament tomorrow.

U.S. Loan To Aid Europe In Coal, Steel Production

By DANA ADAMS SCHMIDT
New York Times News Service, Special to The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, April 11 — The first United States loan to Europe as an entity, represented by the European Coal and Steel Community, is expected in the coming week.

No governments are involved. But in seeking a commercial loan from the United States the community is exercising part of the governmental functions delegated to it by its six member countries, France, West Germany, Italy, The Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg.

The community is expected to receive a loan of about $100,000,000 for which the Export Import Bank will act as agent.

U.S. BACK IDEA

While intended specifically to help finance efforts to increase productivity in Europe's coal and steel industries and to help renew the European capital market, the loan is particularly significant as a demonstration of United States support of the European idea.

That idea is now being debated in Europe in connection with plans to create a defense community among the same six countries. Following the ratification of the Coal and Steel Community treaty in 1951, the defense community would be the second great step toward creating a United States of Europe.

SHOWS ABILITY

President Eisenhower endorsed the idea of making a loan to the Coal and Steel Community in a letter to Sen. Alexander Wiley, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, on June 15, 1953. Anticipating the request, he wrote that he thought that by financing a part of the community's program the United States "would foster European integration in a tangible and useful way."

But Jean Monnet, president of the nine-man executive committee of the community, waited to submit his request until the community had demonstrated its ability to operate and its credit worthiness. This was the picture he presented in negotiations with the State Department, Foreign Operations Administration and Export-Import Bank during the past week.

Exercising attributes of sovereignty delegated to it by its member countries, the community's executive is collecting taxes from some 250 steel and 400 coal enterprises in the six countries at the rate of 1 per cent of the value of each enterprise's production per year. This brings in the equivalent in various currencies of $50,000,000 per year, of which about $20,000,000 is spent for operating expenses. By the end of this year the community will have accumulated a capital of $60,000,000.

Monnet believes the United States loan combined with the community's capital will help Europe shift from the period of post-war reconstruction, marked by massive United States grants in aid, into a new period of development.

N.C. Cancels Polio Tests Because of Delay in Serum

RALEIGH, N. C., April 11 (AP) — State health authorities today cancelled plans for some 25,000 North Carolina school children to participate in a nationwide test of the new Salk polio vaccine.

Officials emphasized the decision was made because the vaccine probably would not be available in time to be effectively tested, and not because of fears expressed about its safety.

Dr. J. W. R. Norton, state health officer, telegraphed the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis that since the polio season already has started in North Carolina "better use can be made of this scarce vaccine by using it in a state with a later seasonal peak."

The State Board of Health had given the national polio foundation notice that it would have to receive assurances by April 10 that the vaccine would be available by April twentieth.

No official assurance was forthcoming from the polio foundation by last midnight, Dr. Norton said.

Ike To Okay Rigid Props For Year?

Young Predicts This Compromise

By CLAYTON KNOWLES
New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, April 11 — A Senate Republican pictured President Eisenhower today as likely to approve a one-year extension of high price supports on major crops.

Sen. Milton R. Young of North Dakota, outspoken critic of administration farm policy, expressed this view as the Senate prepared to take up a wool price bill. A strong movement is under way to enlarge this bill to continue the present program of mandatory price supports at 90 per cent of parity.

Various proposals along these lines already have been prepared in the form of amendments. Sen. Allen J. Ellender Sr. (D-La.) is proposing a two-year extension that has wide backing.

WHITE HOUSE?

In appraising the situation, Young, who favors a high support level, said such a proposal has "a good chance of passing" but seemed dubious about its prospects if it should reach the White House.

"I rather think the President would veto a two-year extension," he said, "but I do believe he would approve a one-year bill."

Young said he thought the President might now be agreeable to a limited extension because of the gravity of the drought in the Southwest and increasing world tension. He said the Senate would approve some sort of extension despite a plea by the Republican leadership to withhold action until the main farm bill reaches the floor.

Sen. Homer Ferguson of Michigan, chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, said he hopes to stave off action until that time. If a test should be forced, however, he conceded the outcome would be close.

COMMITTEE STUDY

In seeking to prevent the test, the Republican leadership is counting heavily on holding many in the majority in line on the basis that the administration farm program, proposing flexible supports, is still receiving committee study. The contention will be made that attempts to amend the wool bill would violate orderly Senate procedures.

A Democrat opposed to rigid supports predicted that the Senate would extend them in the wool bill and that the President then would veto it. This was the view of Sen. Clinton P. Anderson of New Mexico who, as secretary of agriculture early in the Truman administration, favored a flexible support program.

Anderson said he thought the President would rather veto the wool bill than the main farm bill. He said Congress then would repass the wool bill without amendment while some sort of dickering was worked out on price supports for the major crops.

Neither Ferguson nor Anderson thought that the coming debate, while likely to run a week or more, would be the "real showdown" on the farm question.

Suzan Walks Aisle, Crutches Tossed Aside

SANTA BARBARA, Calif., April 11 (AP)—Black haired Suzan Ball threw away her crutches today and walked down the aisle for her wedding as she always vowed she would.

The 21-year-old actress, easily one of the year's most beautiful brides, came to El Montecito Presbyterian Church on crutches but left them in an anteroom. She used a new artificial leg, on which she had not yet finished training, for her marriage to actor Richard Long.

RECEIVED GUESTS

If the wedding was a physical ordeal for the pretty actress, she gave no visible indication of it. She smilingly faced a battery of photographers after the ten minute double-ring ceremony, received the 200 invited guests one by one and then walked back down the aisle of the tiny church to pose at the altar for photographers. There were no pictures taken during the actual ceremony.

The crowd, estimated by police at nearly 1,000, cheered the plucky actress and her groom as they left the church for a private wedding dinner. "I feel just wonderful and so happy," the smiling bride told reporters after the rites.

Her gown, designed by Universal International stylist Bill Thomas, was a gorgeous floor-length creation of rosepoint lace imported from France.

Her walk down the aisle was steady, firm, with but a slight trace of limp. Suzan's right leg was amputated Jan. 12 after a year-long battle with cancer.

U-I PAID BILL

Universal International, the studio which had her under contract, paid a reported $30,000 in hospital and medical bills. The studio also provided the wedding gown, even transported it from Hollywood by limousine and handled most of the arrangements for the wedding.

The groom also is under contract to U-I.

The Rev. Paul M. Gammons performed the ceremony in the quaint country church.

Al Wagner Of Showdom Shot to Death

PENSACOLA, Fla., April 11 (AP). Colorful Al Wagner, 56, owner of one of the three largest road shows in the nation, was shot to death during an argument today.

Sheriff's Investigator Hamp Gandy said William O. Burke, 54, of Muncie, Ind., a painter with Wagner's Cavalcade of Amusements, is being held for investigation. The officer quoted witnesses as saying the shooting followed an argument over a week's pay.

Wagner, who had used Mobile, Ala., as his headquarters since buying the show 12 years ago, was shot once in the chest and once in the arm with a .25-caliber pistol. A native of Providence, R.I., Wagner was well known in show business throughout the East and Midwest.

In 1950, Wagner signed fan dancer Sally Rand to a $100,000 contract.

The following year Wagner filed a two-million-dollar suit against the dancer and the National Broadcasting Co. in U.S. District Court at Chicago, charging she falsely claimed on a radio program that he owed her $23,000.

JINXED — DETROIT, April 11—Running for a street car 30 years ago in his native England, Samuel Jones, 72, of Detroit, forgot to pay three cents for a newspaper. He was arrested and fined $15. Later he visited Canada, but forgot to report conviction when he reentered U.S. Now he faces possible deportation, as concealment of a conviction is violation of immigration laws.

Jarrell Up For Test in Vote Today

By HERMAN HANCOCK

Despite denials to the contrary, the 10-year-old administration of Supt. Ira Jarrell faces its severest test in election of a president of the Atlanta Public School Teachers' Assn. Monday.

Opposing factions in an election scheduled for 3:45 p.m. at the Henry Grady High school gymnasium take divergent views over whether loyalty to Miss Jarrell is the issue, but City Hall observers are convinced "there can be no question that loyalty is an issue."

Although an anti-Jarrell faction of the Atlanta Board of Education lost an effort to nominate a ticket opposed to Miss Jarrell in last year's primary, the undercover battle among teachers broke into the open only recently.

URGES REELECTION

J. Edgar Morris, advocating reelection of Mrs. Dorothy Floyd, Cook school principal, as association president for a fourth term, emphatically denied loyalty is an issue. Morris says he will nominate Mrs. Floyd to oppose D. W. Heidecker, Sylvan Hills High school principal, who previously was nominated by the committee set up for this purpose.

L. Elliott Herrington, nominating committee chairman, Sunday reiterated his belief that Mrs. Floyd's candidacy is "clearly anti-Jarrell" and predicted overwhelming endorsement of the committee's recommendation.

"Loyalty is not an issue," Morris reiterated Sunday. "The issue is whether or not we will have a free and independent association. Teachers resent City Hall brass at our meetings even when they participate with the very best of intentions. We merely have a difference of opinion. That is democracy."

ISSUES DRAWN CLEARLY

"When a slate that is unquestionably loyal to Miss Jarrell is opposed by a group backing Mrs. Floyd, there can be no other assumption than that the slate is anti-administration," Herrington said. "The issue is drawn clearly and unequivocally."

Miss Alice Cheeseman, music teacher at Mrs. Floyd's school, Sunday branded reports that loyalty to Miss Jarrell is at stake in the election as "false, unfair, and misleading," but those supporting the Heidecker ticket were just as emphatic in taking the contrary view.

Morris also said an effort will be made to limit membership in the association to faculties of Atlanta schools. He added that would include principals but would bar supervisors and coaches who are not classroom teachers.

Young Woman From Clarkston Object of Search

Police Sunday were searching for 21-year-old Mrs. Jane Hamilton of Clarkston, who has been missing since last Saturday.

Mrs. Hamilton

When last seen, relatives said, Mrs. Hamilton had left home to come to Atlanta.

She was described as being 5 feet 3 inches tall, with brown hair and eyes. She was wearing a short green coat and a skirt and blouse.

Marietta Enforces Auto Tax Ordinance

Mariettans found out April 1 that their city government wasn't fooling when it announced it was going to collect property tax on automobiles.

Two years ago the city passed an ordinance requiring the registration of all autos and the showing of a windshield sticker as proof the car was on the tax books. Until this spring the city had sort of coasted along to let the plan catch hold.

Some auto owners paid no mind to the registration law. Since April Fool's Day they have been reminded forcefully that the city intends to stop the revenue loss from tax delinquent auto owners.

Notices to appear in court have been sent to more than 700 auto owners charging them with violating the registration rule. Last Thursday night 144 of them appeared in court. Most of the 144 were fined. Some escaped penalty because the car they failed to register had been purchased since Jan. 1 or else they had traded since that date.

The Marietta Recorder's Court will continue hearings on the delinquencies until the slate is clean.

We commend Marietta Mayor Sam Welsch and his council for the aggressive action they have taken in fairness to the auto owners who from year to year return their car for taxes and carried their share of the tax burden.

The policy is one that merits statewide adoption. That is something that would have happened had the Assembly's proof of ad valorem tax payment bill not been vetoed by the governor.

Free Enterprise Has Reduced Drugs' Price

From two sources has come testimony that though the cost of living stays high there has been a definite reduction in the cost of staying alive.

The decrease comes in the drop in the price of the so-called miracle drugs used as specifics in the treatment of diseases once notorious for their high fatality rate.

Gilbert Colina, chief pharmacist for a Charlotte, N.C., hospital, pointed out to fellow hospital pharmacists convening in Atlanta how the price on the "mycin" drugs has gone down, from $1 a capsule in 1952 to 35 to 50 cents today. Likewise, penicillin has been cut from $10 to $15 per 100,000 units to $2 for 300,000 units.

In Calhoun at the Seventh District Pharmaceutical Association, Bill Lee of Newnan, president of the Georgia Pharmaceutical Association, said that in 1927 the average pneumonia case dragged out over five weeks and cost $357. One in five pneumonia victims died. Today a person with pneumonia can be treated at home, get well in only a few days and be billed only $35. What is more, scarcely a pneumonia patient is lost.

Modern drugs with their germ-killing wallop are playing an important part in reducing the over-all cost of medical care.

The increase in their potency, the reduction in their price can be attributed to free enterprise, the competition that gives the public a better product at a lower cost.

What States Got Bulk Of Defense Contracts?

Georgia has received $1,018,980,000 in defense contracts since the beginning of the Korean War—by far the biggest amount going to any Southeastern state. That is a good showing, comparable perhaps to the state's actual industrial capacities.

An interesting sidelight of the Department of Commerce's report on defense buying throughout the nation, however, is that the 12 Southeastern states and the District of Columbia have received only 9.2 per cent of the total defense purchases. On the other hand the New England states —Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut —received 8 per cent of the national total.

In other words, the six New England states received almost as much in defense contracts as the entire Southeast, including the District of Columbia.

The figures make more ridiculous New England's demand for a bigger share of defense contracts, based partly on the premise that the South has "stolen" its industry and business. The report tells a different story.

Another interesting aspect of the report is the fact that 11 states—New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, Washington, Oregon and California—have received more than 70 per cent of all Federal Government buying for defense purposes. These are, of course, the most highly developed industrial states, again proving the adage "him that has gets."

Defense buying, of course, had to be channeled to those states already having the industrial facilities for making the needed goods. However, the figures do provide an argument for a wider dispersal of the industrial base thoughout the country.

Andrew College Enters Its Second Century

This is centennial week for Andrew College at Cuthbert in Randolph County. Colorful ceremonies marking the event have been arranged, with alumni from over the nation participating.

This southwest Georgia Methodist junior college has had an interesting history and its contributions to higher education have been many. And today, during a period when private and denominational schools find it tough going to raise enough money to operate, the school and its president, Rev. A. W. Ray, are busily planning to extend its area of service.

We are pleased to add our congratulations to those of the thousands of friends and alumni of this fine institution on its century of service. As it enters its second century, our wish is for its continued growing usefulness to the cause of higher education in the state.

The School Bus Yellow Means Take It Easy

A school bus is a conspicuous vehicle. No other on the highway looks exactly like one. That it is painted deep yellow is not because someone just happened to like the color. Science has established orange as the hue that most quickly attracts the eye.

There is no excuse for a motorist's violating the law concerning school buses. That is, not if the bus driver gives ample notice of his intention to stop. Part of the responsibility is on him.

The law says (Uniform Traffic Code, Section 89) the driver of a vehicle must stop both when he meets or overtakes a bus that has stopped to load or unload children.

There are exceptions concerning multilaned highways and expressways, but the important thing is the rule, not the exception. And the rule says stop.

Right now Ira Dodd, assistant Fulton County school superintendent in charge of transportation, is asking for police help in enforcing the law concerning school buses. Let's hope he gets the help.

But he wouldn't need it if motorists would form the habit of lifting the foot from the accelerator and getting set for a stop every time the familiar school bus yellow comes within the range of driving vision.

A Good Weekly Marks Its 25th Anniversary

Georgia's weekly press continues to mirror the life of the state and to promote community progress in a commendable manner. Each week through the exchanges we are able to keep abreast of what Georgians are thinking and doing and the story they present is fascinating, indeed.

We note in the current issue that The Bartow Herald, published by Ryan Frier in Cartersville, has passed a milestone. The current issue marks the 25th anniversary of its publication and its services to Cartersville and Bartow County. The Herald has won numerous Georgia Press Association prizes for excellence in various fields, but the proof of the prizes lies in the fact that after 25 years it is growing in service to the community.

We congratulate this progressive northwest Georgia newspaper and its publisher for their quarter century of service to a lively county and community. We hope the association continues to be as mutually fruitful in the future as it has during the past two and a half decades.

When the Red Comes Rob, Rob, Robbin' Along

Maybe it takes hot jive to win the cold war.

Moscow won't give an inch on the floor of the U.N., or at an international conference table, but it looks as if she's capitulated on the music front. For years American popular music drew the Soviet scowl as a prime horror of capitalistic decadence. But now Poland's Communist-controlled radio stations have suddenly begun pouring out jazzy U.S. works without apology—and apparently without royalty payments, either.

Naturally the Reds finally had to give in to a force too powerful to resist. Like our munitions industry, Tin Pan Alley is inventive, prolific, and apparently inexhaustible—a formidable foe, indeed.

Mr. Dulles should consider the potency of a new jive offensive the next time he hires a State Department policy-maker. Is Stan Kenton doing anything these days?

Ex-Teacher Says Americans to Pay Price If They Fail to Dignify the Profession

Chattanooga, Tenn. — I have just finished reading an article in The Saturday Review of Literature by A. Whitney Griswold, president of Yale University, titled "The Free Economy of Students."

The author discusses the general danger to American education. I shall not attempt to review the article, but I'd like to discuss briefly two alarming trends. One I may speak upon from past experience, and the second trend is a subject for future concern.

The first trend is the shortage of teachers and school rooms. Since 1950, colleges have produced a steadily declining number of secondary school teachers, while the number of school students has nearly doubled. Why?

I am an ex-schoolteacher. I taught in a preparatory school for one year after I graduated from college. I did not leave teaching for the standard or general reasons — low pay, poor working conditions, overwork, poor chance for advancement, etc. I left teaching primarily for personal reasons not associated with any of the common reasons. However, I did want to leave the atmosphere which the general public had created that a man (or woman) who devotes his life to education is a fool to be pitied.

This statement shall probably be disputed; therefore, I shall explain myself. One of my students asked me a question one day that many of them felt, "Did you get a job teaching school because you could not get any other job?"

Although this may sound like an innocent question, consider what the student really meant. Most students' opinions usually originate at home. Therefore, I was faced with the fact that the people who were paying money to have their child educated probably felt that the man who was going to do the job was not competent for performing any other task. What individual would care to do work that the large majority of his fellow citizens considered to be unworthy? Much has been said for the dignity of labor. Why should school teaching not have that dignity?

School teaching has been placed by tradition in the "dedicated service" category. The clergy rightly lead this category. They have dedicated themselves to the highest cause, but should we place schoolteachers there? Should the education of all America's youth be something that depends on "dedicated services?" We well know from experience that most organizations that are forced to depend on such service are terribly undermanned. Shall we continue to treat education as a luxury that we may indulge in after "more essential things" are dealt with? If we do, we invite destruction.

If the people of America fail to respect education and educators for what they are worth, we shall pay the price.

JAMES W. WHITAKER.

Atlanta Presbyterians Laud Special Edition

Atlanta—At its recent meeting, the General Council of the Presbyterian Church in the United States, by formal action, directed me to send this communication to you, and I do so with a great deal of personal pleasure.

The General Council wishes to express to you and to your staff its deep appreciation of the publicity given to the agencies of the Presbyterian Church, particularly in connection with the opening of the Presbyterian Center. You and your paper have always been most cooperative with the churches, but upon this occasion both on your editorial page and in your news columns you went further than we had any right to expect.

H-Bomb Fear Said Real and Dangerous

Nashville, Tenn.—I would like to express my concern over the course the United States is pursuing in relation to the testing of "A" and "H" bombs in the Pacific.

America is coming to be looked upon as a country willing to doom millions to starvation by destroying the food supply of ocean fish in order to test her latest weapon of war.

Whether the danger to ocean life is real or not, I do not know, but the fear is real, and it is the fear that turns people against us.

J. McREE ELROD.

Doerun—Recent reports of the devastating effects of the hydrogen bomb have resulted in a rise of speculation and fear (and a corresponding rise in praying, no doubt), but I hope that the letter of Walter J. Shaffer of Atlanta, which appeared in the Constitution, does not reflect a widespread threat of panic.

The complete ruin which modern weapons are capable of effecting, Shaffer writes, "shows the utter futility of civil defense." One wonders if this doesn't show the very necessity of civil defense rather than the "futility."

My own belief is that we must pursue a strong foreign policy to create a situation wherein we will not need civil defense and to set up a strong civil defense just in case the foreign policy fails.

Pearl Harbor Slept Late on That Sunday

Atlanta—From David Lawrence's (anti-everything, except McCarthy) space it seems that some "buck" admiral named Theobald has written a book. In it he is trying to place the blame for Pearl Harbor on "that man" FDR.

Of course he is trying to "clear" his brass buddies who were asleep at the switch when the Japs came in.

You got rid of Pegler, now get rid of Lawrence and make Harold Martin go to work every day. I can understand him at least.

Curriculum Determines A School's Qualities

Demorest—I wish to suggest a correction in a headline carried over a story concerning a visit of the delegation to the Georgia Accreditation Commission. The folks were interested in preserving of the smaller high schools on the community level.

The headline referred to these people as "Foes of Consolidation." It seems that these should be more positively referred to as "Friends of the Community School."

There are good small schools and there are good large schools. But the goodness derives from the program, not from size.

Ike's Talk Missed The Money Hungry

Lilburn—President Eisenhower, in his talk, missed our very worst enemy; one who is among us and one of us. Dollar crazy, ordinary Americans who would vote for anyone who offers them "something for nothing."

They're easy prey for foreign isms which use their greed and their willful ignorance to enslave them and future generations.

Will these Americans chase the dollar until the H-bomb blasts them into eternity? Or will they come to their sense in time?

Why They Fired First on Sumter

At 4:30 in the morning 93 years ago today Charlestonians, except for heavy sleepers, were aroused by a loud noise. They had cause for alarm. What they heard was the first in a series of explosions that were to continue for four years lacking three days. What they heard was the celebrated "Firing on Fort Sumter—First Shot of The Civil War." How come Fort Sumter? Why was this small outpost in the Charleston harbor the hot spot that started all the trouble?

The answer is that by April 12, 1861 Fort Sumter had become an island of unionism in a sea of secession. For weeks the States had been at war, but it had been one of nerves. Already South Carolina had latched on to other Federal holdings in the vicinity. Sumter was a hold-out, but it was apparent it could not be for long. Supplies must come by water and from the North.

In January, 1861, when bachelor Pres. James Buchanan sent an armed steamship, the Star of the West, to supply the garrison at Sumter, the Confederates fired on the ship. That would have been the "first shot" if the man in the White House had wanted to fight. He didn't.

Buchanan passed the hot Fort Sumter potato to A. Lincoln. Lincoln did not want to fight either, but he wouldn't run from a scrap. He proposed to send help to the Sumter garrison. Jittery advisers said, "Mr. President, if you dare do that, the South Carolinians will fire on Fort Sumter and that will be the first shot of the Civil War."

He dared and they did, and it was.

One notes that in the past most wars have started in April. It was the 19th of April in '75 when the shot heard round the world was fired at Concord Bridge. We declared war on Germany in April, 1917; on Mexico in May, 1846; and on Britain in June, 1812. The Spanish-American War began in April, 1898 and ended in August, same year. "It wasn't much of a war," Teddy Roosevelt said, "but it was all the war we had."

There was a time men did not tend to get into a fight in the wintertime. That's all been changed. Now war knows no season.

Gout Can Be Made Into a Big Asset

Medical science after many centuries may have found a method to control the gout.

Researchers in a Boston hospital have been experimenting with a new drug, and while results are tentative, they are encouraging. The majority of those who served as guinea pigs have been relieved of their chronic, recurring pain, and a bright hope dawns for the gouty everywhere.

Gout is one of the most painful of diseases. It is not fatal, which may account for the slowness of the medicos in getting around to licking it. A man with the gout, and more than 95 per cent of all sufferers are men, develops it and then learns to live with it. Treatment today is practically the same as in the days of Nero, and the basic cure is the pollen of the autumn crocus which flourished right in Nero's old Mediterranean domain.

Gout has its points, for it has a great literary tradition and those who live with it receive some slight comfort from the fact that whereas their lives might be drably ordinary, this affliction puts them in the same class with many of the world's most famous men. It was a disease of the ruling classes back when the world had them; and of the intellectuals before "intellectuals" become a dirty word."

Essays have been written on it and the superiority of the gouty over the non-gouty. One essayist went so far as to state that the chief trouble of our world today was that control had shifted from the hands of those with the gout to those with ulcers. Inasmuch as gout is supposed to go with a genial, sanguine sort of temperament and ulcers with the opposite type, there may be something in this.

There are few facts about gout, and a lot of phony legends. It is popularly supposed to be the result of rich living, and while a man may develop it along with malnutrition, pellagra and beriberi, he must put up with all sorts of corny humor from his friends.

Gout hurts like nothing else. It is preferable to arthritis though for the stuff that forms in the joints and brings on the agony is soluble, and in time will go away. The pleasure of recovery is tempered by the realization that another attack will come, but this awful inevitability soon may be a thing of the past.

The affliction has several advantages in addition to its picturesque and non-fatal aspects. It is cheap, for the first thing a good doctor tells you is that there is no cure. You can control it, but you carry gout to the grave. There are no lengthy courses of treatment. Diet is recommended, and apparently the cheaper the food the better. Alcohol is out unless you want hangovers in the feet too. This saves money. Gout sufferers must slow down and avoid fatigue, for exhaustion, either physical or mental, will bring on gout like a lightning stroke.

Gout is the perfect excuse for everything. "Sorry," says the gouty man to an unwelcome request, "I have the gout. It's bad."

The excuse may be completely illegitimate. But so ignorant is the layman of the gout, its causes and symptoms, so impressed is he by the venerable and rococco tradition of the ailment, that he immediately pretends compassionate understanding and lets you off the hook.

Both Herods Were Of The Same Stripe

"Like father, like son." This adage, thank God, is not always true, for many worthy men had worthless fathers, and, alas, many noble men have had ignoble sons. But the adage is true in regard to the two Herods whose lives intertwine in the Gospel story of Jesus Christ. Wise men from the East journeyed to Bethlehem to worship One born to be king of the Jews. As royal personages themselves, they went to the house of Herod to offer their greetings and to inquire concerning the newly born king. The wise men asked Herod the Great, "Where is he that is born King of the Jews? For we have seen his star in the east, and are come to worship him." (Matt. 2:2.).

Herod was troubled, for these words suggested that one would arise to challenge his authority. Herod pretended an interest inconsistent to his nature. He said: "Go and search diligently for the young child; and when ye have found him, bring me word again, that I may come and worship him also" (Matt. 2:8).

The generation passed and Herod the Great was followed by his son, Herod Antipas, tetrarch of Galilee. The Child had now become a Man of inspired word and benevolent deed. The son of the man who, hoping desperately to kill the child Jesus, had ordered the slaughter of all Bethlehem's babies, now faced Christ. Pilate, the procurator, had turned Jesus over to Herod, for Jesus was a Galilean.

Jesus standing in the presence of a judge such as Herod! Is there anything in history to compare with so ridiculous a situation? Jesus knew well the mind of Herod. He knew of his treachery and had referred to him as "that fox" (Luke 13:32).

Herod parried a few stupid questions and asked that some miracle be wrought before his very eyes. Jesus, knowing the character of the man who judged Him, "answered him nothing."

Then Herod, who failed to understand either the man Christ Jesus or the meaning of His words, arrayed the king his father feared in a garb becoming an aspirant to earthly rule. He "mocked him, and arrayed him in a gorgeous robe, and sent him again to Pilate" (Luke 23:11). Herod could not take Jesus seriously!

Twenty centuries have passed, and the Man whom Herod feared and flayed stands in judgment of all men and of all nations. He wants no power such as Herod held. He desires only to rule in the hearts and souls of good men. And there He rules with an unquestioned supremacy such as neither of the Herods could ever possess.

Tumulty--an Anchor For a President

WASHINGTON—This is the tragic and untold story of a man who helped make American history in its most critical period, who sat next to a president of the United States at the White House for eight years and influenced some of the most significant policies of our government before and during World War I, and yet died last week in virtual obscurity, broken in mind and spirit.

Joseph Patrick Tumulty was secretary to President Woodrow Wilson and no man since his time has ever held a comparable position of influence. He was not a member of the cabinet but had more influence than all of them combined.

Always aware of the progressive and liberal trend of American thinking, Tumulty successfully influenced Woodrow Wilson to be articulate at all times against reactionary policies but never to antagonize individual conservatives in the Democratic Party whose support was needed in Congress for the legislative program.

Tumulty knew when a policy, for example of "peace with prosperity" could be espoused.

The distinguished service rendered by Tumulty to his country is well told by John Morton Blum, now an assistant professor at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, in a well-documented biography entitled "Joe Tumulty and the Wilson Era," published in 1951 by the Houghton Mifflin Co. of Boston. It tells of the inexplicable manner in which Mr. Wilson, sick and inaccessible to old friends, was persuaded, in April, 1922, to write a letter to the New York Times repudiating an oral message of greeting which Tumulty had brought to a testimonial dinner in New York City for Gov. James M. Cox of Ohio. Mr. Cox, though supporting the Wilson policies 100 per cent, was defeated for the presidency on the Democratic ticket in 1920 and was being talked of again for the nomination.

The message—unimportant in itself and constituting really no endorsement of anybody for the 1924 nomination—was due to a misunderstanding by Tumulty of an ambiguous, if not incoherent, expression by Mr. Wilson when he was ill. After the Wilson statement, Tumulty apologized publicly for the error but he never was permitted to see Mr. Wilson again in the two remaining years that the former president lived and was not even invited to ride in the funeral procession until Mr. McAdoo, former secretary of the treasury and son-in-law of Mr. Wilson, interceded.

This episode, it has long been assumed by friends, was the genesis of the nervous breakdown that struck Tumulty in later years. He never really recovered from the shock of being cast off after his years of faithful service.

Discuss Indochina At Dinner Meeting

don to discuss problems to which, a spokesman said, it attaches at least as much importance as does the administration of Washington.

The U.S. Secretary of State said, "Whenever there is a common danger we like to talk together in the great intimacy which there is between our two countries." It is expected that this declaration will help to silence some of the clamor that has arisen in Parliament over allegedly unilateral decisions by the United States on foreign policy and experimentation on the hydrogen weapon.

But there are no signs that the Cabinet has altered its attitude that there can be no warning to Communist China before the West sits down with China and the Soviet Union at Geneva to try and negotiate settlements in Korea and Indochina. This British position is shared by the French government.

BRITISH WARY

The government is also wary of adopting any attitude which might alienate Asiatic members of the Commonwealth which regard the Indochinese rebellion as a colonial war.

Today's London Observer, a newspaper with Conservative policies, criticized Dulles for "apparently adopting the attitude of the die-hard colonists within the French government and army but substituting for their hope of buying off the Chinese Communists the alternative idea of frightening them off."

Should Peiping and Moscow refuse to discuss peace in the two Asian trouble spots save on terms which would be clearly "impossible" for the West, then Britain will support a warning.

The whole issue therefore turns on interpretation of the word "impossible." Impossible terms for Britain, which has recognized the Communist regime in China and, it is admitted, "got precious little out of it," would be somewhat different from Dulles' view of impossible terms.

HE'S LIKED

Moreover, diplomatic sources emphasize that the framing of any warning, steps that might be necessary to implement the warning if it was not heeded, and organization of a coalition to take those steps must be subject to prolonged, serious and detailed discussion.

Dulles is extremely popular among permanent officials of the Foreign Office as a man who understands Britain's world problems better than any recent secretary of state. But by training and experience there is strong opposition in those circles to the making of hasty policy decisions, with more regard to internal political considerations than the responsibilities and penalties such decisions may involve.

Cabinet ministers who lay down the main lines of British policy must consider internal political considerations in the United States and those in Britain. It is impossible to ignore storm signals flown by spokesmen for the Labor Party, Strachey who generally speaks for the moderate leadership of Clement R. Attlee, and Miss Jennie Lee, wife of Aneurin Bevan and herself one of the parliamentary leaders of the left wing.

They made a point which may help to explain Labor opposition to British involvement in Indochina. This was that the rebels in Indochina are in the midst of a colonial uprising against the imperial power of France and in Strachey's words, "The war in Indochina is an entirely different thing to the war in Korea."

Dulles has come to Britain, the former war minister said, "to have us agree to fight in certain circumstances" and "to agree to America blockading and attacking China itself, presumably with hydrogen and atom bombs under what is called the new look strategic concept." Britain, Strachey declared, must "refuse absolutely" to accept these proposals.

It was stressed by members of Dulles' party that there had been no mention of war with China or dropping any nuclear weapon on that country in the Secretary of State's discussions last week with diplomats of free nations.

Adlai Rests, Ready For Surgery Today

CHICAGO, April 11 (AP)—Former Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson, who will undergo surgery tomorrow for removal of a kidney stone, was reported resting comfortably today in Passavant Hospital.

The operation on the 1952 Democratic presidential nominee will be performed by Stevenson's physician, Dr. Leander W. Riba.

William McCormick Blair Jr., Stevenson's administrative assistant, and Passavant physicians said the former governor should be able to leave the hospital in a week.

War and Terror Fail To Shake Religious Faith

Survey Shows Quickening Of Fervor Over the World

By C. L. SULZBERGER
New York Times News Service. Special to The Atlanta Constitution

PARIS, April 11—Man's faith in God does not, on the whole, appear to have suffered any crippling blow in the last two decades as a result of the horrors of war, the discoveries of science, the encroachments of materialism or the political and ideological conflicts of the current era.

This is the basic conclusion reached from a survey of the trends in religious beliefs in many corners of the world, made by correspondents of The New York Times.

In the United States, all three of its major faiths — Protestantism, Roman Catholocism and Judaism — are thriving in a religious climate that has never been more favorable. While no spectacular religious revival is at hand, there is general agreement that a sincere quickening of interest is evident.

The Roman Catholic Church is demonstrating great vitality throughout the Americas. In South America it appears to be launching some attacks on Protestantism. On the other hand, in Europe, much of which is under the anti-religious Iron Curtain, Catholicism seems to be either slipping in some instances or in others barely holding its own.

DISASTERS OF WAR

Although there are exceptions to all these statements, the following basic trends appear to be true of all faiths in the areas surveyed, whether Christian, Moslem, Jewish, Buddhist, Hindu or Shinto:

1. The observance of religious practices and the search for spiritual comfort have been marked in almost every country that suffered severely from the disasters of war. However, in lands like Italy, this trend toward faith declined after the stress of war.

2. There is, in many countries, a marked trend toward reform in religion, although basic faith remains strong. This is as true in Moslem Turkey or Jewish Israel as in largely Hindu India or Protestant England.

3. In Communist countries religion has been by no means stamped out. In Titoist Yugoslavia, devotion to the Roman Catholic, Serbian Orthodox and Moslem faiths appears to remain as strong as before the war. Even in Iron Curtain Poland, the Catholic Church remains strong and well attended. Censored dispatches from the Soviet Union indicate that, despite the official disapproval of religion, ideologically speaking, there are enough faithful orthodox believers to contribute to the restoration of many damaged churches.

4. "National" religions have benefited by the patriotic instincts of populations—above all in newly independent lands. Thus the Catholic Church is stronger in Ireland, the Moslem in Indonesia, the Hindu in India.

5. However, broadly speaking, there seems to be a falling off in the population of monastic orders and the number of priests required by the faithful of many sects. One outstanding exception to this is in the case of Ireland, where more men are entering the priesthood than ever before.

OTHER GAINS

The New York Times survey shows that religion has been gaining in the last few years in West Germany, Turkey, Japan, the free areas of Vietnam, the United Kingdom, Ireland, Israel and perhaps—this is difficult to ascertain—in Poland and India.

In most countries where communism poses a threat to national existence, religion seems to have gained both vigor and numbers of recruits. The generally marked decline in population of the monastic orders seems to result more from the decreasing revenue and frequent dilapidation of monasteries and convents and the trend away from fundamentalist orthodoxy than from a decline in actual religious faith.

Then Ludmila Went to Jail

Blonde Hides in Jail, Says Reds After Her

WASHINGTON, April 11 (AP)—An attractive platinum blonde "hid out" in jail today convinced that only there was she safe from Soviet agents although no authorities seemed to believe her story about once being a Russian spy.

Federal officials said they only saved her a cell because she is awaiting deportation in California for pro-Communist activities. She was arrested here Friday night for leaving the West Coast without permission.

Just how long Ludmila Seergevna Mikailova, the 24-year-old blonde, plans to stay behind bars was still something of a mystery.

AWAITS DEPORTATION

Her attorney, John W. Brennan, explained that she probably could be released on $1,000 bond any time she wishes—at least until April 20 when a hearing will be held on the charges of leaving California.

Miss Mikailova told FBI agents she was trained as a Soviet espionage agent in Shanghai eight years ago and that she had been paid as much as $1,000 a month for spying on the Pacific Coast.

Obviously unconvinced, however, the FBI allowed her to go free on bond. Officials pointed out that a real spy hardly would get the same reception.

That's when Miss Mikailova asked for a jail sentence.

"Much as I hate jail," she told reporters, "I'd rather do that than be in constant danger."

BORN IN SHANGHAI

Asked if the woman has been threatened by anyone, Brennan said she seemed to think so. "She has involved or implicated quite a lot of people here in her story and some of them have been calling her up."

Miss Mikailova, who registered in a hotel here as Mrs. Claire Wilson, said she is a Russian national although she was born in Shanghai and lived most of her life there.

During the last three years, she said, she lived in the United States posing as a displaced person.

guard handed him the tablets through the cell bars.

The prisoner grabbed the guard's forearm and yanked him against the cell, facing Vaszorich. The killer held the guard with one hand and held a sharpened 15-inch reinforcement rod from a chair bottom in his other.

The rod taken from a chair in the cell had been honed to a point at one end and bent to a hook at the other.

Two cells away, Silvio Devita, 23, Newark, N.J., was cleaning with a mop. He used the mop to drag a guard's desk to his cell door.

Devita found a pliers and a screw driver in a desk drawer. He passed these to Joseph Grillo, 24, also of Newark. Grillo slipped them to Vaszorich.

The tools were used by Vaszorich to open his cell door, according to Van Note's report to Bixby.

Once free, Vaszorich took the guard's uniform coat, shirt and hat. He found a pair of uniform pants in a closet. Van Note was tied with strips of bed sheets and an electric toaster cord.

Vaszorich used the guard's keys to leave the building.

The killer was at liberty in the prison for more than 70 minutes before Van Note freed himself and sounded an alarm.

Vaszorich finally was cornered on the laundry roof. When he disregarded a command to surrender, Guard Alexander H. Abbott Jr., 31, of Ewing Township, N.J., cut him down with a burst from a .45 caliber machine gun.

Bixby said the keys Vaszorich used to free himself should not have been in the death house, according to prison regulations. They customarily are pulled from the cell block to the prison tower by a string when the guard reports.

There was no explanation of how Vaszorich held Van Note prisoner while he manipulated the pliers and screw driver to open the cell door.

alienated many of his western allies.

Bishop Moore, who last visited the far eastern peninsula two years ago while the was still in progress, said he found "some return to normalcy" during this visit.

He said American troops deserve much praise for the measure of recovery accomplished.

"I don't believe," he explained, "that there has ever been a more humanitarian military force in history. Our GI's give their time, and often their money, to establish orphanages, and to help rebuild churches and schools."

The Methodist church, which lost 381 churches and other buildings during the war, has started rebuilding and has increased its membership by 28,000 members since the war ended.

Bishop Moore was Bishop of Shanghai, which included Korea, for eight years prior to World War II.

As a representative of the American Methodist Church he has revisited the country four times in recent years to serve as advisor to Korean Methodists in church reorganization.

France has in the Far East and in Europe."

"Whatever contribution the United States can make to help prevent the Communist conquest of southeast Asia and to help the gallant band that is defending Dien Bien Phu," he said, "cannot be withheld."

When Smith called Dien Bien Phu a "modern Thermopylae," he referred to a gallant Greek stand at a narrow pass against the invading Persians in 480 B.C.

Leonidas, a Spartan leader, and a band of 300 Greeks stood against thousands of Persians at the pass. All were killed in a vital delaying action. An inscription over their graves reads: "Stranger go tell at Sparta that we lie here in obedience to her command."

Nehru Hoping For 'Cool' Geneva

BOMBAY, April 11 (INS)—Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru expressed hope today that delegates to the Geneva conference will "think coolly" over the burning issues that face the world.

Speaking in Bombay, Nehru asked that the conferees who will be discussing Far Eastern problems, not "threaten each other."

The Prime Minister noted that it was being said the U.S. hydrogen bomb explosions were meant to convey "threats," but he said:

"We must instead clear the atmosphere and make it congenial for the conference."

Lung Cancer Up 5-Fold; Society Ponders Causes

NEW YORK, April 11 (AP)—The American Cancer Society said today deaths from lung cancer in men have increased 500 per cent the past 20 years and that "causes of this rise have not yet been demonstrated scientifically."

The society dealt with the topic in its annual report, which declared that periodic checkups against all forms of cancer could save 41,000 lives annually in the United States.

"Of the six forms of cancer on which the society is concentrating," the report said, "cancer of the lung has shown the most dramatic and challenging increase.

MEN OVER 45

"In men there has been an increase in mortality in the last 20 years of 500 per cent. While the death rate in women has also increased, the major threat is to men over 45. It is estimated that male deaths from lung cancer in 1952 exceeded male deaths from tuberculosis.

"The society takes the position that the causes of this rise have not yet been demonstrated scientifically.

"Perhaps the best way to express the society's attitude is to say that some evidence places cigarette smoking on the scene of the crime but the evidence is not strong enough to convict it. Other data link air pollution to lung cancer."

STUDY OF 204,000

The society said it was sponsoring an immense study of 204,000 men, whose smoking habits it has recorded, to see "if there is a statistical relation between lung cancer and smoking."

Further, it said, it is encouraging early diagnosis and prompt treatment, and has taken the leadership in establishing the National Lung Cancer Committee to mobilize resources against the disease.

Radioactive Iodine Fights Bone Cancer

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., April 11 (AP)—Two promising new weapons against deadly cancerlike diseases of the bones and blood were reported today to the American Association for Cancer Research.

One is radioactive iodine, to burn out cancers of the bone in a disease called multiple myeloma. The other is a drug for a disease, polycythemia vera, in which the body makes far too many red blood cells, thickening the blood.

Each treatment, tested only a year, has benefited half a dozen patients.

The radio iodine helped six out of eight persons with multiple myeloma, which can spread through many bones of the body, said Drs. Joseph P. Kriss, Howard R. Bierman and Sydney F. Thomas of Stanford University and the City of Hope Medical Center, Duarte, Calif.

The drug for the blood disease is daraprim, which oddly is one of the best drugs against malaria, said Drs. John W. Frost and Ralph Jones, University of Pennsylvania.

Superstitions Rack Stage Folks

NEW YORK, April 11—Knocking on wood dates back to the Middle Ages, when a fugitive from war or justice received sanctuary from his pursuers the moment he touched the wooden door of a church.

The Vatican, during World War II, offered sanctuary to hundreds of Jewish refugees and other people marked by the Nazis.

To the superstitious, Friday the 13th is a day of ill omen. One explanation; the Last Supper was attended by 13, Christ and his Apostles.

People of the stage have all sorts of superstitions despite the fact that Webster defines superstition as "a belief founded in irrational feelings, especially of fear, and characterized by credulity."

The performers refuse to be offended by Noah: they have their beliefs and superstitions and they had rather have a good luck token, of tried and proved efficiency, than a copy of Webster's dictionary.

Danny Kaye's "Knock on Wood" recalls some of the superstitions of performers.

Once upon a time, Leslie Howard was one gold sovereign from failure. He was about to spend it and on that day he landed a job. Whether or not he had it with him when his plane was shot down over the English Channel, I do not know.

George Arliss always wore a little gold pig on a heavy watch chain. He bought it at London's Charing Cross station the day he was married.

Bette Davis is convinced that rain brings her good luck; it rained the day she got her chance to play in "The Wild Duck;" it rained the night she won her first Academy Award.

Edward G. Robinson's pet superstition is the silver dollar Tito Schipa once sent him. The night that his son was born, Robinson discovered, at the hospital, he didn't have the silver dollar with him. He sent the nurse hurrying home to get it.

Spencer Tracy always carried a St. Theresa medallion; he's had it ever since he played in "Baby Cyclone" on the Broadway stage. . . . Barbara Stanwyck rarely was without the gold medallion she wore around her neck.

John Barrymore had one stick of black makeup "liner" in his kit; had it for so many years that he pasted it together with adhesive tape. . . . Joe E. Brown used to carry an aged and shiny acorn as a good-luck piece.

In director Anatole Litvak's early pictures, you'd always find a staircase with 13 steps.

CUTS UP WITH DURANTE

Liberace Would Drop Piano for Comedy Role

HOLLYWOOD, April 11 (AP)—Liberace, who gets around Hollywood faster than a Robert Mitchum joke, said today he is looking for an opportunity to turn his talents to the movies.

Television fans, long accustomed to seeing Liberace on his own show and as a "guest artist" on other programs, soon may see him on a movie screen—with or without piano.

"It's getting so I don't have to play the piano to keep people entertained," he explained.

The pianist cut up a few touches with Jimmy Durante on the NBC comedy hour Sunday. He even managed to move out of his usual straight-man role and snag a few laughs for himself.

Matter of fact, he brought his own straight man—his brother George.

"It was my first real opportunity to be funny," Liberace confided, "and I have to admit that it was quite exciting."

During rehearsal, Durante interrupted the pianist to get him to rehearse a dance number. The Schnozz and Liberace were joined by Eddie Jackson (Durante's old-time partner) in the center of the floor and a pianist started banging away at a Durante-type ragtime number. The trio sang off key.

Halfway through the number Jimmy went into his famous shuffling strut, followed by Jackson —and Liberace.

Rehearsal hall hands, chorus girls and musicans—a tough audience by any standards—broke up. They laughed till they cried.

Durante called a halt to fix up the music. Liberace returned, somewhat out of breath. He looked tired.

"I've been so busy," he said. "There hasn't been much time to relax. I'm working on two other shows, plus my own, besides this one.

"I'd have to drop everything if a movie came my way—I'd have to devote everything to it."

Again Liberace was interrupted. This time two cuties from the chorus came over holding glossy portraits of Liberace for autographs.

He took great pains to write a brief message across the pictures and signed with a flourish.

WHAT A PITY
THAT THOUSANDS OF AMERICANS
CHOOSE TO REMAIN BEHIND AN IRON CURTAIN!

"What fools these mortals be!" is about as far as we dare go, in public print, to express what friends and associates say and think of those hard-of-hearing people who believe they are fooling others or concealing their deafness by not wearing a hearing aid.

We're referring to the men and women who, knowingly and stubbornly, remain behind the iron curtain of vanity...the vanity that causes their friends to shun them, places their jobs in jeopardy, endangers their lives and the lives of others because they miss warning sounds while driving autos and crossing streets.

What a pity...when a Zenith Hearing Aid would instantly lift that iron curtain, instantly open up a fuller, more secure, more successful life.

Zenith has lowered the cost of hearing so that anyone can now afford a hearing aid.

Zenith users...including doctors, physicists, scientists, men and women in all walks of life...are people who know how wonderful it is when the iron curtain goes up. They've done something for themselves. They've stopped the needless ruin and risk of their lives. And... they've stopped being a burden and a menace to others.

You may know a Zenith-user. Chances are you do, because there are hundreds of thousands of them. Ask him about Zenith quality, value, dependability. He'll tell you that he prefers Zenith to any other hearing aid at any price.

Here's why Zenith's "Royal-T" Hearing Aid is outselling all others:

The "Royal-T" gives greater-than-ever clarity... new depth and realism. Simple fingertip controls give instant, individual adjustment of tone and volume no matter where you are... under varying acoustic conditions.

No tubes. Greater convenience. Only one battery-change a month... one small 15¢ battery lasts 30 days or more. Compare this to operating-costs of $4.50 to $9.00 a month for vacuum-tube hearing aids.

The Zenith "Royal-T" sells for only $125. If it does not outperform any other hearing aid at any price, simply return the aid within ten days and your money will be refunded promptly. Zenith Dealers have a remarkable Easy-Payment Plan available... your battery savings will cover a considerable portion of your monthly payments.

See telephone directory for nearest Zenith Hearing Aid dealer or write for literature and local dealer list: Zenith Radio Corp., Dept. DF5B, 5801 Dickens Avenue, Chicago 39, Ill.

Orientation Eases Way to High School

By JIM PINSON

To the elementary school student, just entering the "awkward" period of adolescence, nothing is quite so formidable as the jump from the seventh grade into high school.

Realizing this the Atlanta Public School System begins preparing the youngsters to bridge the gap while they are still in elementary grades.

The program gets under way in the spring when counselors and principals from the high school visit the elementary school to become acquainted with seventh graders and to give them a preview of what high school is like.

BOTH WAYS

The pre-high school orientation setup also works the other way, according to Miss Aurelia Davis, coordinator of counseling for the Atlanta schools.

The seventh graders visit the high school, meet some of their future teachers and are conducted on a tour of the high school plant which often looks bigger than the Pentagon to the boy and girl from the small elementary school.

There's also the problem of change in class systems. "In elementary school one teacher keeps the same students all day but in high school boys and girls change teachers several times each day," Miss Davis pointed out.

TWO PERIODS

To meet this situation many Atlanta high schools have worked out a plan whereby some eighth-grade teachers keep students for two periods. The newcomers are also assigned to a "home room," where they quickly become acquainted with teacher and fellow students.

The parents are invited to special assembly programs both at elementary and high schools and to be present for other special functions from time to time. Counselors conduct pre-school interviews with future eighth graders and parents to determine the student's interest and to help plan the best possible school schedule.

TALENTS HELPED

"For example," Miss Davis explained, "if a student is adept at art or shop work, an effort is made to give him as much of this as possible in high school. In so far as is possible we want the new high school boy or girl to have a tailor-made program."

Both daily and accumulative records are kept on seventh graders. If they have academic problems such as inability to read satisfactorily, they are assigned to special remedial reading classes when they enter high school.

High school upperclassmen are encouraged to take an active interest in the progress of the freshman. One Atlanta high school, Murphy, publishes a special edition of the school paper each spring briefing the freshmen on school activities.

"Big brothers" and "big sisters" from the upper classes help guide the newcomers through the early days of their high school experience.

"I believe," she added, "that the Atlanta schools have one of the best orientation programs you can find anywhere."

Civil Defense Needs 17,000 To Man Welfare Jobs Here

Approximately 17,000 persons, ranging from ham radio operators to women who can ladle out soup to stricken children, must be recruited and trained for service with the emergency welfare division of Metropolitan Atlanta's civil defense program.

Wellborn Ellis, chairman of the emergency welfare division, delivered this request to Elliott R. Jackson, director of the civilian defense program, in a massive report on emergency welfare plans and needs.

Tentative plans call for setting up 55 churches as welfare centers, where displaced persons may assemble in the event Atlanta is attacked while the schools will serve as medical care centers. Clubs, colleges, with the exception of Emory, and apartment house buildings where there is a central kitchen may also be used, the report stated. A total of 7,905 persons is expected to be needed to man these centers.

The program also provides for the assignment of 1,350 guards and auxiliary policemen, to be recruited and trained by police services, 230 ham radio operators, 382 public address system operators, 1,212 telephone operators, 1,050 messengers, 1,452 couriers, 1,099 first aid assistants, 1,325 sanitary supervisors, and 1,650 truck drivers to transport food, clothing and evacuees from gathering points to the mass care centers.

Under the organization and mobilization plan the program will plan for and handle the housing, feeding, clothing and registration of "the non-casualty civilian population made homeless by enemy attack or other major disaster."

Hogan, Snead Fashion 289s To Tie For Masters Title

strokes to par and a chance for complete glory. As it was he won the low amateur prize and can tell his grandchildren that he had Hogan and Snead on the ropes with only six holes to play. At that he wound up with a 39 on the back nine for a 71 to go with his other rounds of 70-74-75.

Fourth placers were E. J. (Dutch) Harrison of Ardmore, Okla., and Lloyd Mangrum of Niles, Ill., with 291's, while Jerry Barber, Lacanada, Calif.; Bob Rosburg, Chicago, Ill., and Jackie Burke, Kiamesha Lake, N.Y., were deadlocked for sixth with 292's.

It took a score of 300 to make the money list which was upped to $25,000 this year. The winner of Monday's playoff will pick up a check for $5,000 with the loser pocketing $3,175.

As they started Sunday's second round, everyone was prepared for Hogan to pack away the title again, thus joining Jimmy Demaret as the only three times winner and becoming the only champ to successfully defend a Masters crown.

It seemed almost a sure thing too, judging from past performances when Hogan had marched over the greatest names in golf to take the Masters, U.S. and British Open tournaments hand running last year.

Here is the way they stood at start of the fourth round: Hogan, 71-73-69—214; Snead 73-74-70—217 and Billy Joe and pros Tommy Bolt and Cary Middlecoff deadlocked at 219.

Snead, who has won two Masters titles, was the first of the contenders to tee off. He was out in 37, back in 35 for an even par 72 and put his 289 on the board for Billy Joe, playing a half hour behind, and Hogan, an hour later starter, to shoot at.

Snead pulled out a par four on the first hole after hitting the trap in two and almost holing his blast. The White Sulphur Springs, W.Va., rhythm swinger, pulled his tee shot to the fringe on the par 3 fourth, chipped up seven feet short and missed his putt for a bogey four.

Sam was in the woods on five and lost another stroke to the card and looked as if he was going to leave the stretch running to some other player. But a seven-footer fell for a birdie deuce on the sixth hole and from there until 12 he played with the card. On the latter, a par 3 out

BILLY JOE PATTON STARTS OUT IN TROUBLE
Hits Out of Trap on First Hole of Final Round

Furman BISHER

Sports Editor, The Constitution

A Patton-Leather Finish

AUGUSTA, April 11—They're up on the clubhouse lawn now cheering the guy, and it's a good, hearty one. It rings out over the green carpets of the Augusta National, and risking the charge of soft-hearted sentimentalism, I'll admit that it's sending currents of chills up and down my spine.

William Joe Patton is the name, sir, and if you were here you wouldn't be forgetting it soon. He didn't win. It was just a little too much for him, but not much too much. If he'd only used a little more caution and a little less bravado, it might have been Billy Joe getting that plaque up there instead of waiting for Sam Snead and Ben Hogan to settle their playoff.

Bisher

But they're noising it up for him, and he's grinning that blackberry-picking grin. No matter who wins the tournament, Patton won the people. He has been the life of the party around here this week. If it hadn't been for him, this would have been the deadest Masters since the year that lady tried to disrobe in front of an entrance gallery.

It is with much regret, but great pride that I write for the third day in a row of the daring young man who wouldn't freeze up. Regret, because I remember how once upon a time North Carolina subjects galled our readers. And pride, because I've known the guy since he played barefoot, as when he went into the ditch on No. 13, where he saw that courage was not the better part of valor.

We'd had lunch just before he went off, and in those clipped, evangelical tones of his, he'd turned almost brash. It was no little like a prizefighter going out to knock the crown off another guy's noggin.

—He Played His Ace on No. 6

"These folks thought they saw something the first two days," he said, inhaling a bowl of vegetable soup. "I'm going to show them something else today."

It wasn't said the way a prize fighter says it, though. He'll boast, the pug will. Patton wasn't the braggart. He said it more as a man anxious to make amends for his 75 of Saturday, like a man with a lot of grit in his craw.

If it hadn't been for the grit in the craw, he'd be the champion of the Masters, 1954, the story of the year, the unknown lumber salesman who took a week of his vacation to torment Ben Hogan. The daring got him on the 13th and 15th holes. He'd gone out to play a reckless game, for that's his way, and that, too, is the only way he could win. You don't knock Hogan out of a five-stroke lead in a day, amateur or professional, without a lot of help from Hogan.

He'd turned with a spectacular 32, mainly because of that hole-in-one on No. 6. This was one to stop you cold. Here was the guy, already the biggest noise of the week, aiming his five-iron directly at the pin. The ball never touched grass, but hit the hole on the fly and wedged itself between cup and pin. There were more chills up and down the spine.

—No. 13, the Graveyard of Champions

Up to this point, Patton and Jimmy Demaret, who was shod in some red-and-silver slippers that would be more at home on a burlesque queen, had drawn just a neighborly sized sort of gallery. It was a real pleasure to be among them.

Then the word of the ace spread, and Samuel J. Snead, who wasn't exactly exciting his customers, lost most of them to this amateur and Demaret. By the time they made the turn, being a member of their gallery was like watching the Kentucky Derby from the infield. You were just E Pluribus Unum, and occasionally, should you chance behind some runt, or a party on a camp stool, you'd get a glance of the players.

It was this way when Patton reached 13. He'd already bogeyed No. 12 with a muscular tee shot that hit the far bank and stuck. His second shot on 13, again going for the pin, faded just a fathom or so and landed in the creek. He almost tried to save himself the penalty stroke, had shucked his shoes and was waving his club down in the ditch when better judgment grasped him. He dropped out, and then made his only "choke" shot of the weekend. It was short of the green and almost back in the creek again. By the time he got down, he was good for a seven. The graveyard of many a champion had just buried him—the cotton-picking 13th hole with its creeks and crooks.

What Patton didn't know was that Hogan himself was having his trials at the same time. Actually, before No. 12, Patton had the lead by a stroke. Had his communications system been working, he might then have turned to caution at No. 13, and again on No. 15, where he went for the pin, snubbed his two-wood shot and rolled into the lake. Here, rigor mortis set in.

It was over for Billy Joe Patton. He'd come so close, and missed by such a tantalizing margin. He'd be playing it over and over again for the boys back at the Mimosa Club in Morganton, over and over again, how he'd almost run down Hogan in the stretch.

And so they're cheering him up on the front lawn up at the clubhouse now. He's got it coming, for no amateur and few professionals have ever so stirred the souls over here.

MOBILE, Ala., April 11—Rookie Herb Grissom, one of the rookies who must come through to make Atlanta a pennant contender, came through in sensational style in his Double A debut Sunday as Atlanta collared Mobile, 5-0.

The rangy 21-year-old right-hander, who had a mere 5-9 record with Durham in the Class B Carolina League, proved in this one outing that his record is deceiving.

Bob Giggie

True, he required a late-inning lift from Bob Giggie, but Grissom was terrific during the first five stanzas, in which he did not allow a Bear to reach second.

Then, when he showed signs of tiring in the sixth, Giggie came on and secured the shutout. Manager Whitlow Wyatt, a firm advocate of the yank 'em quick school, pulled Grissom when Fred Folkes and Rudy Rufer drilled singles in the sixth.

But Giggie, who was kayoed in Friday's opener, quickly squelched any Mobile hopes of a comeback. He promptly erased Bill Kerr on a hopper to Paul Rambone, and whiffed dangerous Ray Cuccharini to end the first and last Mobile threat.

Thus Wyatt's men winged home—they caught a plane for Atlanta after the game—with their first series wrapped up, two games to one.

Ironically, they were outhit by the Bears, eight to four, but jammed all their ammunition into a four-run third-inning assault on Jay Ver Crouse.

HERB GRISSOM
Zeroes Bears for Six

Bob Montag, who has been retired only once in 10 trips to the plate, collected half the Cracker hits. A generous quartet of Bear throwers tossed in a dozen walks and hit one batter.

Grissom started the third-inning spree via a walk, and Frank Torre drew a pass two outs later. Montag then rifled a run-producing single into right, and Torre came across on Rambone's hit to left.

Ver Crouse purposely passed Chuck Tanner, and Vern Petty then proved that he's still the Mr. Clutch of the Crackers by banging a two-run double into left.

Manager Stan Wasiak dericked Ver Crouse at that stage, but the two G-men—Grissom and Giggie—had all the stick support they needed.

Final Cracker run was a gift from the Bears in the seventh. Joe Gushanas, a right-handed recruit from Miami, took over in that round and signed passes for Montag and Rambone with one down. Then came a zany play, on which Montag scored from second on an infield out, and Rambone buzzed all the way to third from first.

It happened when Tanner grounded to Fred Folkes at second. Montag was running on the play, and Folkes didn't even try for a play at the plate.

Mobile got only two runners to third—Folkes in the sixth and Ken Pflasterer in the eighth.

Needless to say, Wyatt was highly elated over Cracker pitching in the final two games. Leo Cristante, Bill George and Chico Oquendo collaborated a six-hit 3-2 win Saturday, and Grissom and Giggie left little to be desired Sunday.

Wasiak was glad to see the Crackers depart, for his men did not score a run in the last 16 innings.

Chattanooga moves into Poncey Tuesday night, and Wyatt said Giggie would still get the call.

Monday is an off day.

CRACKER DIARY: Bob Giggie, who started the inaugural against Mobile Friday night, will hurl the Crackers' home-opener against Chattanooga Tuesday night at Ponce de Leon Park. Manager Whitlow Wyatt said Sunday that Leo Cristante would get the call in the second game, just as he did in Mobile. "Giggie, Cristante and Herb Grissom will work every four days." Wyatt said, which leaves only one starting berth unfilled. . . . Most improved player in the Cracker family is veteran Vern Petty. A year ago Petty looked as though he

HE WANTED TO WIND UP WITH THE CARDS
To Slaughter it's Not Great to Be a Yankee

Yankees Obtain Enos Slaughter

Cards' Veteran Outfielder Goes in Straight Player Deal

NEW YORK, April 11 (AP)—Enos (Country) Slaughter, veteran St. Louis Cardinal outfielder, was traded to the world champion New York Yankees today in the second startling player deal between the two clubs during spring training.

To get Slaughter, the Yanks announced they had given up Mel Wright, a 13-2 relief pitcher from Kansas City, and three more men to be sent to Card farm clubs later. Many baseball men, however, believe the Slaughter deal was only the second half of the Feb. 23 transaction to which the Yanks sold Vic Raschi to St. Louis for $75,000.

Slaughter, a "hustle" guy whose name has been synonymous with the St. Louis Cards for 16 years, will be 38 on April 27. He has been as closely associated with the Cards as Raschi had been with the New York club.

Although Slaughter was supposed to be near the end of the string after spending his entire career with the Cards, he played 143 games last season, hit .291 and batted in 89 runs. His lifetime major league average is .305.

The country "boy" from Roxboro, N.C., played against the Yanks in the 1942 World Series, starring defensively with Terry Moore. He also played with the world champions of 1946, last National League series winner, hitting .320 in the seven-game series with the Boston Red Sox.

If General Manager George Weiss really was looking for somebody to combat the Yankee "complacency", Slaughter could be the man. He comes from the old never-give-up school, runs out harmless infield grounders and bowls over anybody who has the tough luck of getting in his way.

To get Slaughter out of the National League, the Cards had to secure waivers from the other National League clubs. How some of the clubs could waive on the old warhorse, even at his age, was a mystery. His salary, probably around $28,000, couldn't be enough to scare off many.

Slaughter was getting tough competition for his old right field job with the Cards this spring but everybody expected he would be playing his usual 140 or 150 games. Rooky Wally Moon, a .311 hitter at Rochester last year, and Joe Frazier, who hit .332 at Oklahoma City, were pressing him. Moon, in particular, looked like a solid bet for the future with his speed.

Sally Loop Opens Play

COLUMBIA, S.C., April 11 (AP)—The Class A South Atlantic Baseball League opens its 51st season of play Tuesday.

A Charlotte, N.C., nine replaces the Charleston, S.C., team this year, and five new managers have been added.

League officials, hopeful of passing the 1948 attendance record of more than a million fans, announced a 140-game schedule which pairs these teams in opening games:

Columbus at Montgomery, Charlotte at Columbia, Macon at Augusta, and Savannah at Jacksonville. The teams will reverse home parks for the same pairings Thursday.

Two new playing managers are Al Unser at Augusta and Clyde Kluttzat at Savannah. The other three new managers are Nick Cullop, Macon; George Kissell, Columbia; and Marvin Olson, Montgomery.

The league's all-star game is set for July 6. The loop-leading team plays an all-star squad composed of players from other league teams.

SLAUGHTER WEEPS AT NEWS, WANTED TO FINISH AS CARD

ST. LOUIS, Mo., April 11 (AP)—Enos Slaughter, the old warhorse of the St. Louis Cardinals, sat in the office of General Manager Dick Meyer and sobbed visibly.

"I didn't think it would ever happen to me; it's the greatest shock I have ever had in my life," he said upon learning he was traded to the New York Yankees.

"To think that I spent nearly all of my life with this organization and then they trade me after I have given them everything I've got.

"And you can tell them in New York that I'll give them everything there just as I have always given the Cardinal organization. Tell them I'll be in Washington for the opening game Tuesday ready to play."

Later Manager Eddie Stanky came in the office and put his arm around the captain. No words were exchanged, but Slaughter continued sobbing unashamed.

"I just can't believe it. I wanted to be a Cardinal to the finish," he said.

Yanks Clubbed Again, Brooks Beat 'Em, 5-2

Kiely Stymies Braves, 5-2; Phillies Nip Athletics, 1-0

NEW YORK, April 11 (AP)—The New York Yankees concluded their worst spring training effort in many years today by losing to the Brooklyn Dodgers, 5-2. The world champions thus dropped six of eight to the Brooks and lost 19 of 27 games against major league clubs.

The Yankees were held to three singles as the National League champions swept the three-game week-end series. Billy Loes held them hitless for the first three frames while the Brooks built up a 5-0 lead on Jim McDonald, Yankee right-hander. Lefty John Podres was touched for two blows in the middle three innings and Joe Black gave one over the final three frames.

Jackie Robinson led the Dodgers with a double, single, sacrifice fly and three runs batted in. Gil Hodges blasted a double and a two-run homer. The homer came in the third inning and was his fourth, tops for the club, this spring.

The result set the Dodgers' exhibition record at 23-11, all games being played against major league opposition. Not included in the Yankee record is six

CINCINNATI, April 11 (AP)—Nino Escalera, 23-year-old Puerto Rican outfielder, smashed an eighth-inning homer with two aboard to break up a tie today and give the Cincinnati Reds an 8-5 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

The final spring practice tilt was somewhat weird. Pitcher Art Fowler of the Reds was supposed to lead off the batting in the sixth inning, but third baseman Chuck Harmon strode up to the plate instead and neither the Tigers nor the umpires challenged the out-of-turn batting order.

Bauer Edges Jameson To Win Colonial

NEW ORLEANS, April 11 (AP)—Marlene Bauer shot a five-under-par 70 today to overcome a five-stroke deficit and win the $5,000 Colonial Country Club LPGA Golf tournament.

The 20-year-old Sarasota, Fla., golfer had a 72-hole total of 297, one better than second-place Betty Jmeson of San Antonio, Texas. Jameson had a final round of 72.

Babe Zaharias, the Tampa, Fla., veteran who led by one stroke after the third round yesterday, faded to a 77, two over par, and finished with a 299 in third place.

The victory was worth $1,200 to Bauer and was the first time this year she took top money.

Raydon, Face Star on Hill; Dusak Leads Batting Attack

NEW ORLEANS, April 11 (AP)—The New Orleans Pelicans backed, adequate pitching with heavy hitting today to smother Birmingham 11-4 and 7-2 in a Southern Association double-header.

Twenty-year-old Curt Raydon limited Birmingham to seven hits in the opener. He put down 15 Birmingham batters in a row at one point.

Erv Dusak spearheaded the 15-hit Pel batting attack on three pitchers. He got a bases-empty homer in the second and a double and drove in three runs.

Elroy Face pitched for New Orleans in the second game.

Hogan, Snead Tied, Play 18 More Today

to the left on the hill and took three to get down.

Sam picked up birds on the long 13th and 15th holes and then parred in. Sam said his putting was bad, which isn't a new complaint for him.

Next came Billy Joe, he bogied one with a five burying his second in the trap. He was on the long second in two and two putts to regain the lost stroke and wheeled along in par until the sixth when he hit the cup on the fly and wedged the ball in between the flag and the cup for his ace that sent up the mightiest roar ever heard on this golf course. Billy Joe birdied the five par 8th and then par four 9th for the fourth straight time of the tournament to turn in 32 for a 63-hole total of 251.

That later proved to be the point where he caught Hogan as the mighty little man from Fort Worth, Texas, turned in 37. When he went on to par the next two holes in four, he was almost on the glory road. But misfortune sfarted striking at the short 12th where he was strong and hit up in the hill behind the green. His out was strong and rolled off the green, but he chipped back and sank the putt for a bogey four.

The roof fell in at the 13th 470-yard dogleg when he went boldly for the green with his second and landed smack in the ditch, costing a penalty. His chip over was far too weak, just clearing the ditch and he finally got down in two for a double bogey seven.

Billy fought back gamely though, grabbing a birdie three at 14, but then he went for the green with a brassie second on the water-protected 15 and again went into the drink. This time he chipped on but two-putted for a bogey six. Billy Joe finished out in par and was still in a position to nab Snead if he had been lucky enough to sink about an 18 footer, which he didn't.

But you can't say he didn't shoot a crowd-pleasing round, one ace, three bogies, one double bogie, four birdies and nine pars. It is not often a man posts a 71 here with two penalty strokes.

Hogan, admittedly not his usual sharp self on the greens, started with a bogey five when his five-iron second was short. Bantam Ben birdied three with a good 20-footer, but slipped over on the 7th when he three-putted, his last miss being an 18-incher, That made him turn one over par.

After getting his par four at 10, Hogan tried to hook a three iron into the green at 11 and went into the water. He dropped out, hit on way past the cup and two-putted for a double bogey six.

Ben played it safe at 13, hitting short for a safe five and then dropped a stroke on the 14th where he three-putted for a five. That left him needing a birdie to get a tie with Snead, which he did on 15 by placing his four wood second on the green and two-putting. From there on in he got his pars. That gave him a 75 for the round, his highest of the four.

This will be Hogan's second playoff here. In the 1942 tournament he and Byron Nelson tied at 280 and Nelson won the extra session, 69-70. The only other Masters tie was in 1935 when Gene Sarazen beat Craig Wood, 144 to 149 after Sarazen's famous double-eagle had enabled him to tie for the title at 282.

Sunday's 289 is the highest winning score ever for the tournament. Previous high was 1952 when Snead won his second Masters with a 286.

In the 1950 Los Angeles Open, Hogan's first after his near fatal automobile accident, Snead won the playoff, 72-76, after they tied at 280.

Dick Chapman captured second low amateur trophy with a 295, while third went to Ken Venturi at 297. Former Atlantan Harvie Ward now of San Francisco and Oklahoma City's Charlie Coe tied for fourth among the amateurs with 298. Arnold Blum of Macon closed with a 75 for 307, just three strokes short of qualifying for an invite in next year's Masters.

Lowest round of the day was a 68 by Dutch Harrison.

As always, the purse for the Masters golf tournament was guaranteed by officials at $10,000 but Sunday it was voted to increase the purse by 150 percent and award every participant $250 plus higher money prizes to low scores. Trophies and medals went to low amateurs.

This Could Be the Week Georgia Starts Its Drive

Four League Games Including Set With Auburn Face Bulldogs

By LARRY FOX

This is the week for Georgia if the Bulldogs are to start that stretch drive toward a second straight Southeastern Conference baseball championship.

The Bulldogs' script had called for a slow start in '54 with returning regulars holding the team up close until newcomers gained the experience to make up for some damaging losses off the title team.

Strength down the middle has been called the key to a team's baseball strength and that's where Georgia's 1953 champs were hit hardest. Gone were catcher Kermith Hall, ace pitcher Jackie Roberts, second baseman Nathan Williams and centerfielder John Clifton. All were SEC choices except Williams, the team captain.

This year Georgia has been following the big bats of three returning infielders to keep up in the race and last weekend they shot over .500 to only a game behind Eastern Division-leading Auburn.

The Bulldogs entered a two-game series at Kentucky standing 1-2 and captured both contests while previously unbeaten Auburn was splitting a pair with Georgia Tech. Now Auburn stands at 4-1, Georgia at 3-2.

Shouldering the big load for Georgia thus far have been third-baseman Bobby Sherrer, the team's leading stickman with a .389 average; shortstop Reggie Andrews, swatting consistently at .303, and first baseman Johnny Douglas.

Sherrer and Andrews have been the most consistent batters during the past week, Sherrer, the team captain, getting two hits in each of the Bulldogs' three games (one against Florida State). Andrews got at least one hit in all three.

But in Saturday's 12-3 victory over Kentucky, the newcomers came through with the heavy hitting as freshman Wendell Tarleton of Atlanta and sophomore Sonny Saye of Athens each clubbed a homer. Tarleton is taking over for Clifton in center field and if he and his young friends keep things up, Georgia will be sound again.

Georgia continues its road trip Monday and Tuesday at Tennessee, then returns home for a Friday-Saturday series against Auburn. That weekend set should tell the story as far as the Eastern Division is concerned.

In addition to its games against Georgia, Auburn plays non-conference Howard at Birmingham Wednesday. Tech, standing 2-2 in the conference, is idle until Friday when Kentucky (0-2) comes to Atlanta for a two-day stand. Florida (3-3) and Tennessee (1-3) play two at Knoxville over the weekend.

In the Western Division, Vanderbilt leads with a 2-0 card, followed by Tulane at 4-2, Mississippi at 2-1, Alabama at 1-2 and LSU and Mississippi State at 1-3.

Phillips Helps Mizell Stop Ft. Meade, 8-1

Wilmer (Vinegar Bend) Mizell, former St. Louis Cardinal pitcher, fanned 10 men in five innings as Fort McPherson won its seventh game in a row over Fort Meade, Md., 8-1 Sunday.

Mizell was touched for four hits and an unearned run until a blister on his pitching hand forced him out after the fifth.

Former Atlanta Cracker hurler Taylor Phillips took over and whiffed six of the visitors and allowed only one safety the rest of the way.

Bobby Willis got three for five, George Barrow had two safeties in four tries and Carl Powis belted a one-run homer in the fourth for the Macs.

The two clubs meet Monday on the Fort Mac field.

Player Officials Okay Pension Plan

Yankees Option Brideweiser; Newhouser Agrees to Terms

Condensed From Constitution Wire Reports

Player-representatives of the 16 major league baseball clubs today approved—with two changes—proposals for a player pension plan which the club owners adopted in Miami last March 12.

Ratified was an agreement which included these provisions: "Beginning in 1956, when the present radio and television agreements covering the all-star game and World Series expire, the players' pension fund will receive 60 per cent of the all-star game receipts and a like percentage of radio and television receipts from the all-star game and World Series.

"The pension fund will be administered by a four-man committee, two of whom will represent the players and two will represent the owners."

The revisions provide that the pension plan will be extended beyond 1961 and that the player-representatives on the four-man committee will be active in baseball.

The Sterling Jewelry baseball nine of the Crest League is seeking some non-league night games during the week. Anyone interested may telephone Manager Ford at CA. 6066 (day) or EL. 2352 (night).

Hyder Calls Spring Drills For Courtmen

Georgia Tech basketball coach Whack Hyder will turn out the welcome mat for 12 candidates at 4 p.m. Monday when the Jackets open 20 sessions and four weeks of spring practice.

Missing from the squad will be baseball players Lane Akers, Danny MacGregor and Bill Cohen, while newcomers will include Leonard Cohen, a 6-5½, 215-pound transfer student from Brooklyn by way of Jacksonville (Fla.) Junior College; and freshman B-team grads Richard Austin and Pete Denby. Austin is from Atlanta, a former Grady High standout, and Denby hails from Carlinsville, Ill. Cohen will be eligible next year.

Others expected out for drills are Howard Snead, Dick Lenholt, Ennis Anderson, Lake Kelly, Roger Bolton, Bobby Kimmel, Jess Carroll, Russell Jessee and Gary Phillips.—FOX

Jackson Loan's Landers Goes 13 To Nip Tucker

By CHARLIE ROBERTS

Jackson Loan's Charlie Landers, who outdueled Tucker's Buster Barnette in 13 innings, 3-2, and Paul Benson, who fanned 19 batters and allowed Tyrone Rock only two safeties in a 15-2 Jonesboro victory, were the standout pitchers as Atlanta Amateur Baseball Leagues opened the 1954 season with an 18-game slate Sunday.

Charlie Landers

Aptly named H. F. Ace slashed a triple, double and three singles in five trips for the day's most notable hitting performance, his rampage sparking W. C. Caye to an 18-11 Piedmont League victory Rockdale.

Lew Riley whiffed 14 in 8⅓ innings of relief work, gave up only one blow, and outduelled Dunwoody's Harold McCleskey in a 3-1 Chamblee triumph in the North Atlanta League. McCleskey was touched for three blows.

Bobby Benton of Bishop Brothers turned in a two-hit, 10-strike out stint, turning back Glenwood Hills, 3-0, in the Atlanta League. Doyle Pair fanned 11 and permitted only one sock in six innings of relief for the Red Sox in their 7-3 conquest of Bethel in the same loop.

Candler Park's Wiley Walker and Jack Stephens collaborated on a four-hitter and whacked three safe blows each in a 13-3 downing of T. V. Haven in the Crest League. Walker fanned six, walked one, allowed all TV hits in his six innings. Stephens struck out three, walked two.

Leonard Saunders toyed with Sylvan Hills in a 12-1 Sterling Jewelry triumph, allowing only five safeties and belting a triple and single. Al Everett pasted three doubles, Buddy Wright three singles in support of Saunders.

Lee Hoyt Pittman pitched and batted Bolton Post 156 to an 8-6 Georgia League decision over Post 147. His three hits, Bob Johnson's home run and Bill Walraven's three-run double were the big blows.

Benny Carlton was another hitting pitcher, whacking three safe ones and hurling Roy Hanson's Shurbutt Service to a 7-6 victory over Ray King and Kirkwood. Don Muse's bases-loaded triple was Shurbutt's top clout.

The Brookhaven Amvets also were forced 13 innings to get past UAW Local 10 by a 9-6 score as Jimmy Maxey turned in a sterling relief job in the North Atlanta League game. Lionel Barker's two-run homer in the bottom of the ninth sank Doraville for Duluth, 6-5.

BOXING PREVIEW

Basilio, Langlois Swap Blows In Week's Feature Ring Action

NEW YORK, April 11 (AP)—Carmen Basilio of Canastota, N.Y., top challenger for Kid Gavilan's welter title, meets France's Pierre Langlois in a rematch at Syracuse, N. Y., Saturday in one of the more interesting fights on an ordinary week's program.

Jake LaMotta returns to the television cameras Wednesday night at Miami Beach (CBS) in his comeback as a light heavyweight against Miami's Billy Kilgore. The match was shoved into the gap when the Archie Moore-Jimmy Slade bout at Washington was postponed.

The Friday night fight again comes from New York's St. Nicholas Arena, since the circus is occupying Madison Square Garden until May. Moses Ward of Detroit and George Johnson of Trenton, N.J., go 10 or less in a middleweight scrap on TV (NBC) and radio (ABC).

Eduardo Lausse of Buenos Aires, who impressed on a previous visit, returns to top the Eastern Parkway show in Brooklyn Monday (Du Mont-TV in some parts of the country) against Jesse Turner of St. Louis.

The Basilio-Langlois rematch (ABC-TV) is expected to sell out the Syracuse War Memorial Auditorium. Their first bout, Dec. 19, wound up in a highly debated draw with Langlois coming on strong in the final rounds. One judge voted for Langlois, one called it a draw and the referee named Basilio. Langlois is a middleweight but Basilio campaigns as a 147-pounder.

Jackson Loaners Defeat Feds, 4-3

Carl Doane pitched hitless ball for four innings after relieving lefty Bob Dawkins, and George Najour smacked a home run and single in leading Ben Massengal's Jackson Loan baseball nine to a 4-3 victory over Federal Pen at Bennett Field Sunday.

BILL ALLEN

Outdoor Georgia

Georgia Wildlife
Strictly Local
One Opinion
On Affiliation

I wrote here last week a pledge to my reader, Dr. Brim of Pelham, and any others interested, that I'd try to explain why Georgia has no active affiliation with the National Wildlife Federation.

The story in short is politics.

A certain state once affiliated, if I remember correctly directly after a governor whom no one thought would make it was elected. The Georgia Federation of Sportsmen supported him.

Bill Allen

He and the people who were influential in his administration followed recommendations about the game and fish commission and it became a constitutional body. That is, the members of the commission were changed from a political status of "ins" and "outs" exchanging places every election. They now are appointed and serve six years, and elect the administrative officers of the commission. That was an achievement.

But soon after this first step, the commission was pressured into appointing the federation's choice of a director to run the state's game and fish business.

Favoritism and grass roots criticism of same brought the governor to ask the director who he was working for—the people of Georgia, or the National Wildlife Federation? The director replied that he was beholden to the "federation members" because "they got me the job." He was summarily dismissed, and here's the point:

When a man then was named director who treated everyone alike, and bent over backwards to give an honest accounting of the department to everyone—then, the "sunshine patriot and summer soldiers" fell apart. So did what could have been a strong national tie with enlightened wildlife savers. They didn't care about anybody's conservation but their own, and they used it for politics first, and special favors later.

This year of 1954 is an election year, and no time to "organize statewide federation of sportsmen" unless there is a real, genuine issue at hand that threatens wildlife or game fish.

But next time, let's don't disappoint everyone who expects great ideals like those of the North American Wildlife Conference by delivering a mess of pottage. Let any state federation of sportsmen be a true federation and not a football. I know that the nation's conservationists, so concerned over Georgia's non-membership in the federation, wouldn't have it any other way.

Canadiens Stick In Playoff Race

DETROIT, April 11 (AP)—Veteran Kenny Mosdell kept Montreal in the Stanley Cup Hockey playoffs by whirling in the winning goal unassisted at 5:45 of the first sudden death period to give the Canadiens a dramatic 1-0 victory over the Detroit Red Wings tonight.

It was Mosdell's first goal in nine playoff games this season and gave Montreal its second victory in the best-of-seven series.

All Must Bear Cross, Atlanta Pastors Assert

By LAURA BARRE

In special Palm Sunday services Atlantans Sunday were reminded that as the life of Christ led from the short-lived triumph of his entry into Jerusalem to His dishonorable death upon the cross, so the lives of His followers must follow a troubled path to the eternal life.

The Rev. Harry S. Hayes, S.M., of Sacred Heart Roman Catholic Church told his congregation that although the week from Palm Sunday to Easter is called Holy Week, it is up to the individual to make it holy through increased efforts to follow in the steps of Christ.

(Atlanta churches schedule special services for Holy Week. Story on Page 12).

"As He went through suffering and died out of love for us, so we should return for love and meditate more on His sufferings and death in order to rise to a new life with Him on Eastern morning," he said.

NEVER EASY

Dr. Roy O. McClain told his listeners at First Baptist Church "the pace Jesus set on that fateful day, which is erroneously called the triumphant entry, is the same road which he expects us to take to our Golgothas. This way of the cross is always decisive—never easy, usually unpleasant. But beyond the cross Christ had fixed His eyes on the crown."

The Rev. Paul Renz, pastor of Peachtree Road Lutheran Church, stressed that by following Christ's steps, by living the Christian life and living with Christ in our lives, man shall not perish but have everlasting life.

The Rev. Milton Wood, rector of All Saints Episcopal Church, said that just as there was no turning back for Christ from the turmoil of Jerusalem to the quiet of His home in Nazareth, so we all have our Jerusalems—the points from which there is no turning back. As Christ could not escape fulfilling His destiny, neither can we escape from our hydrogen bombs and social problems.

"If we are to live and fulfill our destiny," he said, "we must press on to our Jerusalems. We do not make our journeys alone, however—our Savior, who has traveled the way before, goes with us."

INVESTMENT IN FUTURE

At a service in which 72 children were received into church membership, Dr. Claud Haynes of Peachtree Road Methodist Church explained to his congregation that "the ride of Jesus into Jerusalem on Palm Sunday was the interlude that prepared Him for the crisis ahead of Him. It reassured Him of the backing of His friends, and gave His friends an opportunity for public commitment that would carry over to the period after His death and resurrection. So this incident was an investment in the future success of the early church."

Dr. Arthur Vann Gibson said at Morningside Presbyterian Church that "it is important to recognize the entrance of Christ into our experience as the fulfillment of our deepest needs. In Jerusalem they did not recognize Him for what He was on Palm Sunday. We have the intervening centuries to help us."

A Beautiful City, KeepItThatWay, Hartsfield Urges

Mayor Hartsfield Sunday appealed to the public and to city officials and department heads to help keep "Atlanta the City Beautiful."

He pointed to the colorfully lush spring with its flowers and blooming trees and urged that unsightly signs, trash and all other debris be controlled so "as not to mar our beauty."

The mayor said he will ask officials of the parks, the municipal auditorium and others to bar the use of unnecessary signs along roads or in the parks and to enforce laws against defacing trees.

"I hope we will have the cooperation of the public and officials in keeping our city beautiful the year around."

Atlantan Hurt As Blast Cap Fires in Hands

An unemployed Atlanta man was seriously injured Sunday afternoon when a short-fused dynamite cap exploded in his hands as he was preparing to throw it in the Flint River, Fayette County Sheriff Hugh Stinchcomb said.

The cap blew the 34-year-old man's left hand off, severely injured his right arm, his stomach and face.

The man, Ernest Clifford Livingston, 34, of 670 Gary Rd., NW, was admitted to Grady Hospital in critical condition. Sheriff Stinchcomb said Livingston apparently was going to dynamite fish.

The sheriff said he found two more caps at the scene of the explosion. He declared the fuses were only about three inches long.

The accident occurred on the bank of the Flint River about six miles southeast of Fayetteville near the community of Inman. The Flint divides Fayette and Fulton counties at that point.

Dixie Prison Progress Is Lauded

The South today represents the best area in the development of progressive penology, Dr. Walter M. Wallack, president of the American Prison Assn., said here Sunday.

Speaking at the opening session of the Southern States Probation and Parole Assn. and the Southern States Prison Assn. conference, Dr. Wallack said that despite the progress made here and in other sections, the biggest need of the American correctional system today is still greater professionalization.

He described the professional panel worker as one who has been adequately trained in the discriminatory functions of his job, knowing what skills he may apply with the utmost effectiveness in order to get the job done.

Dr. Wallack was introduced by O. B. Ellis, general manager of the Texas Prison System and president of the Southern States Prison Assn.

The conference, which attracted approximately 400 delegates from 15 Southern states, will continue through Wednesday.

Highlight of tomorrow's program will be the governor's banquet at 7:30 p.m. in the Dinkler Plaza Ball Room.

Went for Ride With Girls and Escort, Robbed at Knifepoint, Student Says

A 19-year-old Georgia Tech student was held at knifepoint and robbed of $7 late Saturday night after he was "picked up" by two teen-age girls at Atlanta drive-in restaurant, police reported.

The youth said he was robbed on a lonely Cobb County road by a boy who filled out the party.

The robber apologized to the student and told him: "The girls made me do it," police said.

Ernest Cox told police the boy returned his wallet when he asked for it. Then the boy apologized and the three drove off, leaving him on the side of the road.

3 CARS SLAM INTO POLES HERE

Matron Pinned by Crash Into Rear of Trailer Truck

An Atlanta woman was pinned in the front seat of a car which struck the rear of a tractor-trailer, but suffered only minor injuries, police reports revealed Sunday.

In another crash, a 16-year-old Negro escaped injury when the car he was driving skidded 120 feet in front of 3393 Peachtree Rd., NE, struck a mailbox and a utility pole which fell across the vehicle, according to police.

In the auto-trailer collision, police said a car driven by Harold L. Mason, 36, of 213 Hillyer Pl., Decatur, struck the other vehicle, operated by Clyde J. Leazer, of Mt. Pleasant, N. C., at DeKalb avenue and Howard street.

Mason suffered cuts and bruises, and his wife, Lilly Irene, 33, who was pinned for a short time in the front seat, suffered a wrenched back and a broken ankle. Their daughter, Frances Wyline, 13, suffered a cut on the forehead.

Mason was charged with following too close-accident.

The Negro driver of the skidding car was listed by police as Robert Searcy, no address, and was charged with operating drunk, drunk on street, speeding-accident, and no driver's license.

In another mishap on the Northside, Jack E. McClannahan, 18, of 2405 Paul Ave., lost control of his car goining east on W. Paces Ferry road and struck a pole at Habersham road, police said.

Police added the car skidded through shrubbery in front of the home of Allen D. Albert Jr. at 281 W. Paces Ferry Rd. He was charged with failure to have car under control-accident. The pole fell across the hood of his car.

Police said a car driven by Paul Terrill Townsend, 23, of 843 Hollywood Rd., Saturday night struck a utility pole in front of 1220 Moore's Mill Rd. He was treated at Grady Hospital for injuries to both eyes, chin and knee.

He was charged with speeding-accident and driving on the wrong side of the street-accident.

Texan Rounds Up 344 Lbs. of Snake

OKEENE, Okla., April 11 (AP)—A resourceful Texas rancher, who smoked out his quarry with a gasoline-soaked gunnysack, bagged the top catch of 344 pounds of diamondback rattlesnakes at the 15th annual Okeene snake roundup here today.

Bill Slover, 48, Matodor, Texas, snared 207 snakes, 55 of them from one den. Slover forced several of the reptiles out with fumes from his gasoline-soaked sack, then 12 more when he set the den afire.

NEW LOOK FOR TRAINING SCHOOL—Bulldozers go to work as a beautification program gets under way at the Georgia Training School for Girls at Adamsville. As soon as the grounds have been put in order a contract will be let for erection of a $350,000 building that will give the school an auditorium, gymnasium and classrooms.

OUR NEGRO COMMUNITY

Co-ops Praised as Way to Better Living

By CLAUDE GEORGE SR.

Cooperatives are the answer to the Negro's economic problems, Dr. Jacob L. Reddix, president of Jackson College in Mississippi, said here.

Dr. Reddix listed four cooperative methods by which the Negro could improve his economic lot before the Butler YMCA Weekly Hungry Club.

They are: (1) Production cooperatives; (2) marketing cooperatives; (3) consumer cooperatives and (4) credit cooperatives.

The educator said, "The Negro should be interested in the cooperative system of business organization because it is possible to do business on a large scale and thereby create an economic power that will enable him to cope with the chain-store system."

He added, "It is possible for the 50,000 members of the Negro churches in the city of Atlanta to save $20 a month in credit union federation and have a million-dollar fund with which they could create a powerful economic and political influence in the city."

Sunrise Speaker

The Rev. A. S. Dickerson, pastor of Ariel Bowen Methodist Church and one of the Protestant chaplains at the Atlanta Federal Penitentiary, has been chosen by the Inter-denominational Ministers Alliance to deliver the annual Easter sunrise sermon.

The open air service will be held at the Atlanta University Bowl at 6 a.m., April 18. Music will be furnished by the David T. Howard High School Band under the direction of Kenneth Days.

McGill at Spelman

Americans must hold fast to their faith in democratic government which continues to allow more freedom than any other system even to those who seek to destroy it, Ralph McGill, editor of The Atlanta Constitution, told Spelman College students.

McGill said our leaders too often fail to realize that this country is the leader of the free world and that what we do is now of international concern.

Two great ideologies stand face to face, the editor told the students, and our hope lies in the fact that we are a nation of Christian ideals.

Going to Singapore

Miss Elsie Mallory, a Spelman College junior, has been named to the American delegation to attend the World Assembly of Youth Conference in Singapore in August.

She will represent the YWCA and other youth organizations.

A native of Omaha, Miss Mallory has served as an officer of several national youth organizations. She was elected national chairman of the Employed Women's Council of the YWCA at a convention in Chicago.

She will serve as a member of the National Centennial Planning Commission which meets in New York City May 19-21.

Special Services for Holy Week Are Scheduled by Atlanta Churches

Special Holy Week services have been scheduled in many Atlanta area churches this week, in observance of the most solemn season of the Christian year—the intensified period of fasting and repentance of the final week of Lent.

Good Friday, the blackest day of the Christian year, commemorates His crucifixion. Special Good Friday services will be announced later.

Holy Communion is scheduled at 8 p.m. Maundy Thursday in the Russell High school auditorium for members of Christ Lutheran Church.

EARLY AT ROSWELL

A brief inspirational service will be held at 7:30 a.m. Thursday at Roswell Presbyterian Church. The early hour was set for the benefit of working people.

The Episcopal Church of Our Saviour has scheduled Mass at 7 and 10:30 a.m. and evensong and compline at 8 p.m. Monday through Wednesday; Holy Communion at 7 and 10:30 a.m. and Tenebrae at 8 p.m. Thursday.

The Rev. Nam Chin Cha, a former Korean Communist soldier now a student at Columbia Theological Seminary in Decatur, will speak at a fellowship dinner at Clifton Presbyterian Church at 6:30 p.m. Monday. Dr. Paul L. Barber will preach at the church at 7:45 p.m. Tuesday and sermons are scheduled at 7:45 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday, with Holy Communion following the Thursday sermon.

BETHEL COMMUNION

Holy Communion is scheduled at Bethel Methodist Church at 7 p.m. Thursday.

Special services are scheduled at 8 p.m. Monday through Thursday at St. John's Lutheran Church.

The Episcopal Church of the Holy Comforter has scheduled special services at 7:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday. Speakers are as follows: Monday, the Rev. E. Jerome Zeller, curate of Holy Trinity Episcopal Church, Decatur; Tuesday, the Rev. E. Carl Sandiford, assistant rector of All Saints Episcopal Church; Wednesday, the Rev. George H. Murphy, canon of the Cathedral of St. Philip and Thursday, the Rev. Austin Ford, assistant rector of St. Luke's Episcopal Church. Holy Communion will be celebrated at Thursday's service.

CHURCH OF EPIPHANY

Holy Communion also is scheduled at the Episcopal Church of the Epiphany at 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

The Lutheran Church of the Messiah has scheduled vespers with The Litany at 8 p.m. Monday through Wednesday and Holy Communion at 8 p.m. Thursday.

At Sacred Heart Roman Catholic Church, Masses are scheduled at 6, 6:30, 7, 7:30 and 8:15 a.m. Monday through Wednesday, with Novenas at 5:30 and 7:30 Monday. Confessions will be heard from 3:30 to 6 p.m. and from 7 to 8:30 p.m. Wednesday, with Tenebrae and a sermon scheduled at 8 p.m. Holy Communion and confessions are scheduled at 6:30 and 7:45 a.m., a Solemn Military Mass and the Procession of the Blessed Sacrament at 8 a.m., Tenebrae and sermon at 8 p.m. Thursday, with adoration at the altar of repose all day and all night.

ST. PHILIP CATHEDRAL

Holy Communion will be celebrated at the Cathedral of St. Philip (Episcopal) at 10:30 a.m. Monday, at 7 and 10:30 a.m. Tuesday, 10:30 a.m. Wednesday and 7 a.m. and 8 p.m. Thursday. A Lenten service and sermon are scheduled at 8 p.m. Wednesday.

The Rev. Theodore G. Ahrendt will speak on "What Is It?" at a Holy Communion service at Grace Lutheran Church at 8 p.m. Thursday. Holy Communion also is scheduled at the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer at 8 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday.

Georgia Doctors Invited to Cancer Panel at Augusta

All Georgia doctors have been invited to attend a symposium on cancer at the University of Georgia Medical College in Augusta April 22, the American Cancer Society announced Sunday.

"This is another in a series of professional education programs which are being staged to keep doctors aware of the latest techniques in diagnosis and treatment of cancer," Dr. Enoch Callaway of La Grange, chairman of the society's professional education committee, said.

Easter Portrait

Setting and costumes designed by a Friend of the Family

Rich's clock on the corner has seen many changes in its time, but one thing remains constant! It's traditional for the family to come to Rich's for their Easter outfits.

It started down on Whitehall Street when great-great-grandmother ordered 15 yards of bombazine for her Sunday dress and 4 yards of serge for her son's suit. That same day she placed an order for her baby's christening gown.

Times have changed since then . . .

Today the baby is a great-grandmother herself. And depending on Rich's has grown into a family tradition. For 86 years of exactly-right Easter clothes have proved Rich's is truly a Friend of the Family

Books Burn, History Lives

Books on Georgia history are not so plentiful or so easy come by as most history-minded citizens of the state suppose. Ideally a youngster idly sampling the volumes on a bookshelf at home or at the public library might dip into many books about his native state's beginnings and thereby be enticed into a life-long enthusiasm for history.

Except for the books in the reference rooms of public libraries and a few private collections, there just aren't many books on Georgia history lying around. That's one of the reasons I grieved so when Mr. Harold Bush's old book store on Pryor Street burned recently, reducing to ashes not only history books but a fine collection of first editions by Georgia authors both living and dead.

That is also why I rejoiced with citizens of Glynn, Camden and Charlton Counties when I learned how Rep. Bernard Nightingale has decided to spend the $500 which he received with the Active Voters' "Statesmanship Award" for 1951.

Mr. Nightingale has decided to invest the entire sum in a collection of Georgia history books for the regional library which serves those three counties. The collection will be known as the Active Voters Award Georgia History Library.

The award itself is an interesting one—given annually to the member of the Georgia General Assembly selected as "the outstanding statesman" for the year. A unit of Active Voters known as the Isabellas, a group of 12 women, finance the award as their contribution to encouraging statesmanship in the law-making bodies of the state government.

Another one is coming up this month at the annual Active Voters meeting in Columbus April 23 and 24. The Active Voters have given no inkling as to the candidates for the award this year but being careful observers that they are, it is very likely that they have the complete record of all senators and representatives.

Active Voters, believing with Burke, that "The only thing necessary for evil to succeed is that good people do nothing," have a growing organization of citizens many of whom have never heretofore shown any active interest in politics. It is a growing organization which does not pretend to remain non-partisan, as does the League of Women Voters, but actively drafts or endorses candidates and pitches in and helps with money and volunteer service in the campaign of candidates considered by the members to be worthy of material help.

Minimum standards of membership in the organization are brief and interesting: 1. Remain registered. 2. Vote in all elections. 3. Give moral and financial support to Active Voters.

Active Voters would not normally be classified as a patriotic group but its accomplishments may add up to a serious contribution to patriotism. At least, the way the $500 award to Mr. Nightingale was spent certainly seems patriotic.

Worsteds 'Bestest' For Easter

By AGNES McCARTY

You can't be bested if you're worsted for the Easter season.

Worsted combined with silk is being used by top fabric creator Forstmann in luxurious weaves that are being appropriated by suit designers for some of their best spring productions.

Talmack uses novelty herringbone silk and worsted in a light suit weight fabric for his semi-fitted jacket worn over a matching sleeveless dress with a drawstring sash. With the jacket on this costume looks like a suit. Standaway sleeves are new note. Hat worn in picture is designed by Sally Victor.

Ben Gershel uses Forstmann's silk and worsted patterned in a sharkskin finish fabric. The beige suit has a shoulder wide collar finished with a huge taffeta bow. Hat worn in the picture is designed by John Frederics.

A black and white mixture of silk and worsted is used by Brigance in a tailored suit that features a gently curved jacket. Pockets set a low shoulder mark and shiny black buttons contrast with a blazing white linen collar.

Youth Brings Gaiety, Glamour to Mealtime

By DOTTY LUNDY

Blame it on 1954's bumper crop of teen-agers.

Or blame it on the maidless kitchen. Whatever the cause, life is less formal these days. Sociologists point to the war babies that swelled the birth rolls in the early forties, now edging into adolescence.

And teen-agers, traditionally a boisterous bunch, rarely go for fingerbowls. So the relaxed pace goes into dining. Eating indoors or out, youth brings gaiety and glamour to mealtime.

That's the finding of Lynn Scott, director of Plaskoa Home Arts Council, who is making a continuing study of trends in American homemaking. Miss Scott will be in Atlanta tomorrow and Wednesday.

"It all adds up to more gracious living in a more relaxed manner," explains Miss Scott. While here, she will show new designs and colors in plastic dinner ware.

MODEL PLASTIC HOME

To demonstrate the effects of youth and new materials on the modern home, Miss Scott has designed a model plastic home of today. The exterior is patterned after Mamie's Little White House in Augusta, but the interior is designed for the average American family with two or three growing children.

Miss Scott is showing her model house, constructed on a scale of one-half inch to the foot and fully furnished throughout, to audiences of women throughout the country. She will show the house in the dinnerware department of a local department store at the same time she is showing newest table settings.

The home stylist says her work indicates that "today's housewife is distrustful of the fragile, elaborate and frilly in furnishings for her home. She demands beauty, but beauty must serve a practical purpose."

BEAUTIFUL, PRACTICAL

An outstanding example of combining beauty with practicality is melamine dinnerware. The simple, efficient pieces of plastic dinnerware are available in several relaxing colors. Most effectively used on place mats or a cloth of contrasting color. Miss Scott points out that a further bright touch can be added to breakfast, luncheon or dinner by combining two colors of dinnerware.

Melamine, the material from which the dinnerware is molded, is impregnated throughout with color which will not fade with the hardest use.

Mrs. J. W. Cleveland

Miss Jones Marries Georgian

At an afternoon ceremony solemnized at St. Andrews Episcopal Church in Tampa, Miss Martha Frances Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Jones of Driver, Va., was married to Jones William Cleveland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence H. Cleveland of Senoia. The Rev. Harold B. Hoag officiated.

After the service a reception for the two families and close friends was held at the bride's apartment in Tampa.

Mr. Jones gave his daughter in marriage, and Mrs. Nerine Daugherty, the bridegroom's sister, was her matron of honor. Miss Clora Belle Watson was bridesmaid.

Mr. Cleveland chose his father as best man, and William W. Jones was groomsman.

Milo Craig Massey, Eddie A. Borges, David W. Parrish, all of Tampa, and Dr. Myron J. Doub Jr. of Columbus ushered. William C. Smith II, small nephew of the bridegroom, was ringbearer.

After a honeymoon in Nassau, Mr. Cleveland and his bride will reside at Davis Islands Hotel, Tampa, where the former is freight traffic representative for the Central of Georgia Railway Co. The bride has been manager of the Tampa office of the Vernon E. Ramsey organization for the past several years.

Pecks To Be Guests Of Blake Van Leers

Easter visitors expected this week are Mr. and Mrs. Jordan B. Peck Jr. and their small son, Jordan Brown III, of Gainesville, Fla., who arrive Wednesday to spend the remainder of the week with Mrs. Peck's parents, Col. and Mrs. Blake R. Van Leer, at their home on the Georgia Tech campus. Both Mr. and Mrs. Peck are enrolled for graduate work at the University of Florida.

Other visitors arriving on Thursday to spend Easter are Misses Betty, Mary Anne and Sue Kalkhurst of St. Louis, who will visit their grandmother, Mrs. William H. Schroder, at her home on the Chattahoochee River.

MISS NANCY McLARTY leaves Tuesday for New York where she will be a guest at the Waldorf-Astoria for 10 days.

MR. AND MRS. WALTER D. TAULMAN will return Friday from Redington Beach, Fla., where they spent the past three months at their winter home.

OTHER ATLANTANS already back from Florida are Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Acklin who spent some time at Homosassa.

MRS. VICTOR BALKCOM has returned to her home at Blakely after a visit to Atlanta to see her daughter, Miss Frances Balkcom, off to Europe. Miss Balkcom left Saturday by plane for a six-weeks tour of the continent.

THE SON BORN MARCH 27 to Mr. and Mrs. William J. Hendrix Jr. has been named George William. Mrs. Hendrix is the former Corrie Hoyt.

JOSEPH GUZY and F. E. Byers were among the guests attending the Father-Daughter Weekend at Skidmore College, Saratoga Springs, N.Y., where their daughters, Misses Diane Guzy and Barbara Byers, are students.

The Atlantans attended the faculty reception, ate in the college dining hall, watched the water ballet and gymnastics, and joined in the fun at bowling, bridge and an informal dance.

MRS. CHARLES M. DAVIS and Miss Olive Bell Davis have issued invitations to a tea on Tuesday, April 20, in compliment to Miss Helen Beaudry, a bride-elect of May 1. The affair will be held from 4 to 6 o'clock at their Peachtree Battle avenue residence.

LEAVING FOR NEW YORK last week were Mr. and Mrs. Walter W. Aycock and their children, Patricia and Walter, of 1803 Meadowdale Ave. They sailed Saturday on the United Statse for England, where they will visit Mrs. Aycock's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William O. J. Bright, in London. Mr. Aycock will return in six weeks, but his family will remain for three months.

MISS NANSI-LEE SMITH, a junior at Denison University, has been initiated into Pi Phi Eta, a group scheduled to become Ohio Eta chapter of Pi Beta Phi sorority before school opens for the fall term in September. Miss Smith is the daughter of Mrs. Claude M. Swinney of Decatur.

MAKING ANNUAL APPEARANCE FOR EASTER
Baked in Advance, They Are Easily Reheated

Homebaked Hotcross Buns Lead Easter Parade of Sweets

By JEANNE HIGGINS

Whatever made hotcross buns such a special treat, they are delicious as ever in their annual lenten and Eastertime appearance.

FUN WITH FOODS

Whether baked or hand carried from the bake shop, they are best served hot. Here are several ways to do them justice when reheating: 1. Heat in unopened package in preheated oven (350 degrees) 15 minutes. 2. Place on rack or trivet in covered pan with two tablespoons water.

Steam about 10 minutes over low heat. 3. Wrap tightly in aluminum foil and heat at 375 degrees for 20 minutes.

Homebaked buns mean good eating fresh from the oven, or done in advance—they take well to reheating.

HOT CROSS BUNS

2 packages yeast, compressed or dry
¼ cup water (lukewarm for compressed yeast, warm for dry)
1 cup milk
½ cup sugar
2 teaspoons salt
¼ cup shortening
2 eggs
5 cups sifted enriched flour (about)
1 teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon allspice
1 cup currants
White Icing

1. Soften yeast in water. Scald milk. Add sugar, salt and shortening. Cool to lukewarm. 2. Add flour to make a thick batter. Add softened yeast and eggs. Beat well. 3. Add spices and enough more flcur to make a soft dough. Stir in currants. Turn out on lightly floured board or pastry cloth and knead until smooth and satiny. 4. Place in greased bowl. Cover and let rise in warm place until doubled (about 1½ hours). 5. When light, punch down. Let rest 10 minutes. 6. Divide dough into pieces the size of a walnut. Shape each piece into ball. 7. Place ½ inch apart in greased pans or 1½ inches apart on greased baking sheets. 8. Let rise until doubled, (about 45 minutes). 9. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 20 to 25 minutes. Make cross of white icing on each roll.

WHITE ICING

1 egg white
1⅓ cups confectioners' sugar
¼ teaspoon vanilla extract

1. To unbeaten egg white add sugar gradually, beating it in. 2. Add vanilla extract. 3. Drop from tip of a spoon to form crosses on rolls. Makes about 3½ dozen rolls.

Your Stars Today

DAILY GUIDE—Ths could be quite a political day, and that doesn't mean just government politics. In your personal life you must know some people who play politics in little ways. Well, they will be around today without doubt. They can work things rather smoothly, too. This week marks the beginning of a long transit of the planet Mars in the sign Capricorn, so you with birthdays in that sign can be assured of a very busy time in the next few months.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY, ARIES! You may feel the new spurt of energy already which will be a taste of what is coming for you this spring and will stay with you until after October. It might be opposition or challenge, criticism or a prodding into action. You don't need much prodding so hold down your natural instinct to leap right into the middle of a situation. You might want to change your base of operations, move, expand or radically change your home and domestic surroundings.

Insurance Women To Hear Reports

Convention reports will be heard at a dinner meeting of the Atlanta Insurance Women's Club at 5:45 p.m. Tuesday in the Orchid Room of the Peachtree on Peachtree Hotel.

Delegates to Garden Meet Reduce Convention Quota

By YOLANDE GWIN

MACON, Ga., April 11—Members of the Garden Club of Georgia, winding up their twenty-sixth annual convention here Saturday, endorsed a proposal to reduce from two to one the number of delegates attending an annual convention as official representative from member clubs.

This will effect the 1955 meeting set for next spring in Atlanta.

A plan was also adopted to honor the retiring president, Mrs. A. N. Dykes of Columbus. Every member of the state organization will plant a tree during the next year as a compliment to their leader. There are more than 18,000 members of the Garden Club of Georgia.

Mrs. Dykes came in for another honor before she turned the gavel over to the incoming president, Mrs. T. J. Smith of McRae.

Members of her board who served with her during the past two years, presented her with a R. L. Wheeler camellia bush. The presentation was made at the closing session by Dr. W. G. Lee of Macon.

National stability was the keynote of the report made by Miss Lurline Collier of Jefferson. She said:

"We are witnessing the rising interest of civic, industrial and business people, and of labor groups as they see the margin between plenty and not enough grow narrower. South resource use is good economy. May I charge you with the challenge which confronts Georgia and America today to make conservation a real part of club plans and to strengthen your cooperation with your county agricultural services, your forestry, your soil conservation and your school authorities."

Garden clubs will soon derive an income from garden calendar sales, according to Dr. Hubert Owens of Athens. He also said that member clubs donated $1,993.20 to the 25th anniversary fund for the Founders' Memorial Garden in Athens.

There are 22 active garden centers in the state, reported Mrs. Shelby Myrick of Savannah. She also said that there are six towns maintaining book shelves of garden literature.

The convention was spiced by the talk by Macon's newspaper editor and columnist, Susan Myrick, whose humorous talk was a highlight of the annual banquet.

At the closing session, another sparkling speaker was Mrs. Charles McLean of Leland, Miss., South Atlantic regional director.

'Miss Smyrna' To Receive Scholarship

A college or vocational school scholarship will be top prize for the winner of the forthcoming Miss Smyrna contest.

Details of the competition were announced this weekend by officials of the Smyrna Junior Woman's Club, sponsors of the event this year.

The competition is set for 8 p.m. Friday, April 16, at Orme Camp High School Auditorium. Monday is deadline for entries, according to Mrs. E. L. Hoepner, president of the club and chairman of the contest.

Lucia Hutchinson, Miss Georgia of 1953, will crown Miss Smyrna, who will proceed to the state contest in Columbus. Guy Duncan, mayor of Smyrna, and Don Elliott, WSB-TV commentator, will take part in the crowning ceremony.

Judges will include W. P. Sprayberry, GEA president; J. J. Daniel, executive secretary of the Cobb County Chamber of Commerce; Leonid Skirvirsky, photographer, and Joe Fricks of a local charm school.

Entries will meet at 8 p.m. Monday at Smyrna's Woman's Clubhouse.

Principals Speak to PTA

Principals of five grammar schools and PTA presidents from two other elementary schools will participate in the Southwest High School PTA program at 8 p.m. Monday.

The high school parents and teachers will use the panel discussion to get acquainted with the grammar schools of that area which send graduates to Southwest ligh School, Mrs. R. V. Robinson of the program committee said.

Participating in the program will be Miss Josephine Brandenburg, principal of Margaret Fain School; Mrs. Grace Avery, principal of Ben Hill School; Mrs. Marie Van Huss, principal of West Haven School; Mrs. G. R. Tucker, principal of Sandtown School; Mrs. Evelyn Showalter, principal of Utoy Springs School; Mrs. Helen Talton, president of the Cascade School PTA, and Mrs. E. R. Brooks, president of Venetian Hills School PTA.

Take S.S.S. TONIC
For Iron-Starved Blood
AFTER A COLD
"Just now I am getting over a cold. So I bought a bottle of S.S.S. Tonic yesterday."
That's what Mrs. John E. Trostle of Gettysburg, Pa., says about S.S.S. And thousands of men, women and children have used S.S.S. TONIC to build up iron-starved blood after a cold has run its course. Famous S.S.S. TONIC resists iron deficiency ANEMIA by building RICH, RED BLOOD and banishing the tired, rundown, let-down feeling that often lingers after a cold.
DOCTORS' TESTS PROVE S. S. S. HELPS YOU TWO VITAL WAYS:
1 Builds RICH, RED BLOOD cells; resists iron deficiency ANEMIA.
2 Stimulates the flow of VITAL DIGESTIVE JUICE, thus improving stomach digestion and appetite.

Massey-Harris Co. Offers Complete Line for Farmers

MAMMOTH—The new Beaudry Trading Mart is one of South's most modern, spacious, complete auto sales outlets. New Fords, along with many used-car values, will be on display at this revolutionary layout. Atlantans are invited to take a leisurely tour of the readily accessible premises, 360 Williams St., right on the Expressway. See story.

Got the Car Trading Fever? Visit 'Beaudry Trading Mart'

Beaudry, Atlanta's oldest Ford dealer, is setting the pace in Atlanta for modern auto merchandising with the opening last week of the big, spacious "Beaudry Trading Mart," a boon to any motorist with either new or used car trading fever. C. M. Daniel, Beaudry president, termed the unique Trading Mart the "most accessible, modern and complete car sales outlet in the South."

The site, covering nearly a whole block, is at 360 Williams Street, right on the Expressway, and also opens on Peachtree Place and Alexander Street. It is one of the most readily accessible spots in Atlanta, and was carefully planned with customer convenience in mind.

Motorists who prefer to check on new cars at the new lot rather than visit the downtown Beaudry showroom will find every color and body style of the exciting '54 Ford on display. If you are looking for a used car, then you'll find an array so wide that you're far more likely to find the exact color, make and model in the price range you prefer. The Trading Mart opens at 8 a.m., and will remain open until 9 o'clock at night.

In addition to ease in driving in and out, the clean, paved layout facilitates leisurely inspection. It's the kind of place where you can take the family and spend all the time necessary to choose a car that pleases every member. Visitors will feel free and welcome at the Beaudry Trading Mart because Beaudry salesmen refrain from high pressure sales tactics and concentrate on rendering helpful service. Natural lighting makes it easy to see the true color and condition of the car you pick out.

M. H. Sneed, vice president and sales manager said, "we're better prepared than ever before to give good service on new car sales," and Milt Daniel Jr., used car manager, stressed the fact that "Beaudry has some of the best buys in used cars in many years." Both urged motorists who are dreaming of driving a new car "not to trade anywhere before driving by the new Beaudry lot."

All the used cars offered by Beaudry have been traded in by original owners for new cars and they're priced to move fast. "It makes better sense than ever to buy from a reputable dealer like Beaudry," said Mr. Sneed, "because every car we sell is certified A-1 as to quality of condition, and is guaranteed by Beaudry." The firm has a 38-year record of outstanding service to Atlanta motorists.

All cars are sold on convenient budget terms, with payments over periods up to 24 months. Quick appraisals of any car will be made, a deal can be closed in just a few minutes at Beaudry.

Satisfied customers who have purchased trucks from Beaudry also number in the thousands. "The firm's gross sales in used cars and trucks totaled over a million and a half last year," stated Mr. Daniel.

Whether or not you are in the market for a new or used car at present you'll enjoy stopping by the revolutionary Beaudry Trading Mart to look around and see the progressive steps the firm is taking in automobile merchandising. There's no obligation of course.

Lewis Steel Works, Wrens, Featured Here

WRENS, Ga. — A powerful new Massey-Harris Model 70 S. P. Combine is the newest addition to Dr. J. J. Pilcher's farm, located near Wrens.

Recently delivered to Jordan Boulineau, farm manager for Dr. Pilcher (note accompanying photograph), the sturdy Massey-Harris unit will be used to harvest 275 acres of wheat, rye, oats and blue lupine. Dr. Pilcher already owns a Massey-Harris Mustang tractor and other equipment.

Seller was the H. I. Lewis Steel Works, owned and operated by Walker and Bobby Lewis, who have been in the farm machinery business since 1940. This progressive farm equipment concern became a franchised dealer for Massey-Harris a year ago, during which time they have delivered and serviced a large quantity of farm machinery, including several combines.

In addition to combines, the Lewis firm, along with other Massey-Harris dealers in the Southeast, offers their customers a full line of Massey-Harris machines—considered to be the most complete line of farm equipment ever developed by any manufacturer. Massey-Harris dealers are representatives of a company that has been building quality farm machinery since 1847 . . . "old in experience, but young and aggressive" in its present-day management.

The history of the Massey-Harris Co. is one of expansion and steady growth, of keeping pace with modern trends—at the same time always adhering to its original principle of custom craftsmanship. Today, 12 Massey-Harris factories serve the world . . . building more than 1,000 different types of machines for farms of all types and sizes . . . employing nearly 19,000 skilled workers . . . and distributing farm equipment in 106 countries of the world.

The Massey-Harris Co. is a firm believer in strong dealer support, and carries on a continuous promotional program to give prospective customers all the facts about M-H machines and equipment. Members of the Massey-Harris branch offices work closely with dealers, assisting them in merchandising and selling problems so that they may obtain a greater share of the volume potential in their respective territories.

The Massey-Harris Co. invites farmers to visit their nearest M-H dealer and see the new machines, incorporating latest improvements. For the name of your nearest dealer, if he is unknown, write Massey-Harris Atlanta branch, 4800 Peachtree Industrial Boulevard.

Dealers interested in the Massey-Harris franchise are invited to call 47-2538, Chamblee, write or visit the above address. Full details on franchise opportunities cheerfully given.

"READY FOR ACTION"—Walker Lewis of the H. I. Lewis Steel Works, Wrens, Ga., well-known Massey-Harris dealer in this area, shown as he presents keys for new Massey-Harris model 70 S.P. combine to Jordan Boulineau, farm manager for Dr. J. J. Pilcher. The Massey-Harris machine will be used to harvest 275 acres of wheat, rye, oats and blue lupine on Dr. Pilcher's farm, located near Wrens. See story.

Oven Magic

ENTIRE OVEN BOTTOM is removable on this 1954 electric range. No more hard scouring inside the oven in a cramped position with this new feature: bottom lifts easily and slides right out. It may be washed at the sink as conveniently as any cooking utensil. The removable oven bottom appears on four models of Kelvinator's new 40-inch range series.

A PICTURE OF THINGS TO COME—Shown above is a skilled MacDougald-Warren crew laying a smooth asphalt surface for a large employee parking area at a new office building at 986 West Peachtree St., NW. Providing off-street parking for patrons and employees is the one sure answer that business and industry has to the ever-growing problem of space to park. Read story on this page to find out how MacDougald-Warren's skilled crews can help you increase business by developing adequate off-street parking.

Off-Street Parking Trend Proves Boon to Business

Sales are on the upswing in many Atlanta businesses that only a short time ago were experiencing difficulties because of inadequate customer parking facilities. The reason for the increase can be laid to the far-seeing wisdom of businessmen who have called in MacDougald-Warren to provide adequate off-street parking space for employes and patrons.

Such action has already proved itself to be the sure way of preserving a steady business volume, and at the same time insuring against a drop in business property value.

Metropolitan Atlanta's particular need for privately owned parking facilities is so great that it has become a matter of prime civic consideration. According to officials of the Central Atlanta Improvement Association, the existing city ordinance, which now requires commercial activities outside the downtown area to provide necessary off-street parking, is no longer adequate. Today, a new and more stringent ordinance is under discussion, and its early adoption is anticipated.

Studies made by successful operators of super-type food stores show that a ratio of one parking space for every two to three customers must be provided.

Sales volume has a direct relationship to parking facilities, their figures show. Sales increases ranging from 20 per cent to 30 per cent have been noted immediately by stores that have surfaced additional area, bringing inadequate parkng lots iup to recognized standards.

Other businesses and professions have shown substantially increased activity when adequate parking space was provided. Churches have reported attendance gains after opening new off-street parking lots.

MacDougald-Warren, Inc., fits naturally into the plans taking shape to handle Atlanta's growth. This company specializes in the construction of parking and loading areas. They are equipped to handle every phase of such jobs—heavy earth moving, grading, base preparation and final asphalt surfacing.

As a leading Southeastern supplier of asphalt for construction and highway jobs, MacDougald-Warren makes its mass production economies and skilled crews available for this work. Large or small areas can be quickly made into valuable off-street parking lots. No job is too large, nor is a job too small. MacDougald-Warren has the men and machines to do them all.

Dr. J. H. Crawford Dies; Practiced Over 50 Years

Dr. James Harden Crawford, 75, of 1428 Peachtree St., NW, well-known physician, died Sunday night at the residence after an illness of three months.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by H. M. Patterson & Son.

An eye, ear, nose and throat specialist, Dr. Crawford entered practice here before the turn of the century, and was active until his death. He pioneered many medical advances in Atlanta, including the use of diathermy in conjunction with the tonsillectomy.

Born in October, 1878, at Oak Mountain Springs, Ga., he was the son of the late Dr. James Madison Crawford, also a well-known pioneer Atlanta physician. His mother was Elizabeth Jane Dismukes Crawford.

Dr. Crawford attended Boys High School here and Alabama Polytechnic Institute. He entered practice here 55 years ago shortly after his graduation from the Atlanta College of Physicians and Surgeons.

He had maintained offices in the Grant Bldg. for more than fifty years and was a life member of the Fulton County Medical Society. He was also a member of the American, Southern, Georgia and Fifth District Medical Assns., Palestine Lodge, F. & A. M., and the First Presbyterian Church of Marietta. He was on the staff of Georgia Baptist Hospital and the St. Joseph Infirmary.

Last November he and his wife, the former Hallie Pattillo, who survives, celebrated their 55th wedding anniversary.

Also surviving are three daughters, Mrs. Guy A. Kenimer, Jacksonville, Fla., and Mrs. Alex M. Hitz and Mrs. James D. Robinson, Atlanta; a son, Robert P. Crawford, Atlanta; a brother, Byron C. Crawford, Ponte Vedra, Fla.; 10 grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Liebman Dies; Husband Founded Firm

Mrs. Leila Keller Liebman, 87, of 4730 Harris Trail, NW, widow of Isaac Liebmann, co-founder and president of the The Atlanta Paper Co. prior to his death in 1924, died Sunday morning in a private hospital following an illness of several years.

Private funeral services will be held Monday in Oakland Cemetery, Rabbi Jacob Rothschild will officiate. The family requests that flowers be omitted.

Prior to her illness Mrs. Liebmann was active with a number of civic and social organizations. She donated two ambulances to France during World War I.

Born at Columbus, she was the daughter of the late John Keller, owner of a foundry which provided swords for the Confederacy. Her mother was the late Ernestine Haiman Keller.

Her husband joined a paper company shortly after coming to Atlanta from his native Germany in the 1870's. When the company was dissolved, he and the late Mogris Adler formed the Atlanta Paper Co. from the residue.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Arthur I. Harris, Atlanta, and Mrs. M. A. Rothschild, New York City; two granddaughters, Mrs. Henry H. Ogden, Atlanta, and Mrs. Edna Royston, New York; two grandsons, Arthur L. Harris, Atlanta, and Dr. Marcus A. Rothschild, New York, and six great-grandchildren.

Highway Toll 4 Georgians; 5th Drowns

Five persons met accidental death in Georgia during the weekend — one by drowning and four in traffic accidents.

The drowning victim was identified by Lincoln County Sheriff W. A. Hammond as Leroy White, Negro, of Atlanta. Hammond said White was on a fishing trip at Clark Hill Reservoir and waded into deep water Sunday.

A man identified by the State Patrol as James Sanders, 47, Negro, of Rte. 6, Charlotte, N.C., was killed in a car wreck near Carrollton Sunday afternoon.

The patrol said an automobile in which he was riding turned over in passing another car on U.S. Highway 27 about a mile from Carrollton.

The State Patrol said Clinton Walter Williams, 52, of Danville, Route 2, was killed early Sunday by a car while walking along Georgia Highway 112. The driver of the vehicle was not identified.

Robert Edwin Burnett, 26, of Talking Rock, was killed Saturday night when his motorcycle left Georgia Highway 5 south of Ellijay and George E. Wray, 30, of 311 Fales St., Douglas, died Saturday night when his car ran off the highway and overturned north of Waycross, the Patrol said.

Dr. Sharp Talks On Use of Bible

A talk on the use of the Bible in all countries was given here Sunday by Dr. Roland Hall Sharp, of Boston, special correspondent for the Christian Science Monitor, before the Principia Patrons Assn. of Georgia at the Atlanta Historical Society.

Dr. Sharp recently completed a global journey for a series of articles on the use of the Bible, to be published in the Christian Science Monitor. Following his talk, slides of new buildings at the Principia, a school for children of Christian Scientists, situated in St. Louis, were shown.

A Rhyme a Day

"The marriage of Barbara Hutton and Rubirosa was foredoomed to failure because of adverse astrological conditions."—Horoscope column quote.

When Babs and Rubirosa wed . . . perhaps ten million people said . . . "I'll bet this marriage doesn't last. . . I base my judgment on the past . . . experience each one has had . . . which has been, altogether, bad."

The wedding was a sad affair . . . (though neither you nor I were there) . . . we saw the pictures and we read . . . the stories in the news which said . . . a lot about the bride and groom . . . and of the atmosphere of gloom . . . which made the ceremony seem . . . as cheerful as a drunkard's dream.

And that's no way for man and wife . . . to start upon their wedded life . . . I don't care what the stars portend . . . they'll come to some unhappy end . . . this really is an awful omen . . . for a husband and his woman.

Goren ON Bridge

BY CHARLES H. GOREN

Q. 1—As South you hold:

♠A 10 9 5 4 3 ♥K 9 8 7 4 ♦— ♣A 2

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	2 clubs	Pass
2 hearts	Pass	4 spades	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—We recommend a strange bid here—namely: Five diamonds, and we are aware that the more orthodox call would be five clubs. It seems to us that showing the club ace would not necessarily solve partner's problem, whereas the five diamond bid would put him at ease as to his losing diamonds. If, which is not at all improbable, partner should have the ace of diamonds, he will know your hand is based on other values.

Q. 2—Partner opens with two no trump and you hold:

♠A J 9 ♥A 7 5 ♦K 10 9 8 ♣Q 8 7

What is your response?

A.—A direct raise to six no trump would not do justice to your holding. You have 14 points and partner has promised 22, 23, or 24. If partner has a maximum two no trump, a grand slam contract would be a sound investment. The accepted manner to uncover such a state of facts is to make a temporizing bid of three diamonds, to be followed by a bid of six no trump. This is stronger bidding than offering an immediate raise to six no trump, and partner should bid seven if he has a maximum.

Q. 3—As South you hold:

♠J 9 6 4 ♥K J 9 ♦K J 9 8 7 ♣7

The bidding has proceeded:

East	South	West	North
Pass	Pass	1 spade	Double
Pass	2 diamonds	Pass	3 clubs
Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Partner has shown a very strong hand by doubling and then bidding at the level of three. As your hand, containing 9 points, is just a jack short of an average hand, you should therefore feel optimistic about a game and the recommended call is three no trump. Partner should realize your spade stopper is doubtful, since you did not try no trump on the first round.

Q. 4—As South you hold:

♠10 6 ♥Q 9 6 5 4 ♦6 ♣A J 9 5 2

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 spade	2 diam.	Pass	Pass
2 hearts	3 diam.	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Four hearts. A single raise would not do justice to the hand, and even if partner has a mild rebid, you should have a good play for 10 tricks.

Q. 5—As South you hold:

♠7 4 3 ♥A K 8 ♦A J 9 ♣8 6 5 2

The bidding has proceeded:

East	South
1 spade	?

What do you bid?

A.—Pass. Despite the fact that this hand possesses a little over three quick tricks, it is not of the type that lends itself conveniently to a take-out double. You need only visualize that your hand will be the future dummy and that it will have very little trick taking power for partner. To put it in another way, if you were the dealer, you would not have had a sound opening bid, for the hand contains only 12 points and not even a biddable suit. There is the further disadvantage that you will be forcing your partner to bid at the level of two.

Q. 6—As South you hold:

♠J 10 7 6 5 4 ♥K 9 7 5 ♦4 3 ♣4

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South
1 diamond	Double	?

What do you bid?

A.—One spade. With this distribution including so many cards in the major suits, surely you will wish to take some action at some time during the auction, and there is no better time than the present. If you wait, the bidding may get too complicated for you to enter the conversation conveniently, and you will thus be shut out.

Q. 7—Partner opens with one spade, and you hold:

♠Q J 7 5 3 ♥6 2 ♦K 9 5 ♣A 10 3

What is your response?

A.—There is no satisfactory bid with this hand. It is too good for two spades and not good enough for a jump to three, which guarantees game. Nor is it the proper type for a jump to four. The best bet is to make a temporary bid of two clubs, intending to give a spade raise on the next round.

Q. 8—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠J 8 3 ♥A 3 ♦K 7 5 3 ♣Q 9 6 3

The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
Pass	1 spade	4 hearts	?

What do you bid?

A.—With a likelihood that you can win two tricks defensively, the indicated procedure is a penalty double. While it is true that East may be trying to maneuver you out of position, there would be no justification for a bid of four spades, which would be a shot in the dark. Remember, if East had not interfered you would have no reason to believe that your side could make a game. If partner's hand is unbalanced and contains a long spade suit, he need not stand for the double. He can decide to go on to game in spades.

CONSTIPATED?

If you suffer from constipation, don't miss reading this letter from Bess Durham!

"Honestly, I'm like a new person these days," smiles Bess Durham, Memphis, Tenn. "I used to suffer something awful from constipation. Couldn't seem to get relief from the laxatives I was using for half the day or so. And then I discovered Sal Hepatica. What a wonderful friend it's been. Why, if I wake up feeling logy and constipated, I take sparkling Sal Hepatica before breakfast, and get gentle, speedy relief usually within an hour!"

Yes, that's how to avoid "Laxative Lag"* with Sal Hepatica. Sal Hepatica gives quiet, speedy, gentle relief from constipation . . . sweetens sour stomach, too! So keep Sal Hepatica handy in your medicine chest.

Gentle, speedy
SAL HEPATICA
Saline, Antacid Laxative

Drugs Spur Search For TB Preventive

Many of the public health venereal clinics throughout the country were forced to reorganize during the past two years for lack of patients.

New and more effective remedies have reduced the number of cases: another factor is the more stable home life enjoyed by the majority of our people since war's end. In many areas, the personnel of venereal disease clinics has been transferred to strengthen the organized battle against tuberculosis.

The fight against tuberculosis is being waged in every community in the land, not only by the medical profession but by public spirited organizations such as the National Tuberculosis Assn. This organization is celebrating its golden anniversary and deserves great commendation for its vital work over the past 50 years.

Early detection, through chest X-ray surveys of the general population, benefits not only the victim but his relatives, friends, and co-workers. It breaks the chain of infection.

Drug treatment of the disease began in 1946, with the discovery of streptomycin. Early results were discouraging because the product was toxic and tubercle bacilli soon became resistant to it. By 1949, these disadvantages were circumvented by combining streptomycin with other drugs. The effect was startling.

Valuable as the drug treatment has proved, all authorities agree it is insufficient for cure and must be combined with bed rest and one of the various surgical procedures.

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Large Families Thrive On Hand-Me-Downs

David, 16, is our youngest child.

Before his brother Daniel left for college last fall, Mrs. Crane bought Daniel some sweaters, shirts and other attractive apparel.

David then expressed envy of one of the sweaters and asked his mother to get him one like it.

When she replied that he had plenty of clothes for high school, he exclaimed:

"Why, all the teachers at high school know my wardrobe from A to Z! There isn't anything I can wear that they haven't seen for 16 years.

" 'Cause George wore the stuff four years. Then Philip wore them four years. Daniel then wore them four years, and here I'm wearing them four years more.

"Mom, I need something new for a change! What do you say?"

SALES EXAGGERATION

David was using typical sales exaggeration, for the three brothers ahead of him hadn't worn his clothes for four years apiece.

But it is true that most of his apparel has been handed down to him by one or more of the three older brothers.

I cite David's objections, however, to show you the slant that the youngest child takes toward this subject.

Many of these youngest sons or daughters feel that they have rarely anything entirely NEW.

Fortunately, Mrs. Crane reminded David that his oldest brother George had also worn handed down clothing which a neighbor of ours had passed along. For her only son, Don, was a couple of years older than George.

So George wore some of Don's clothing, and he then passed them on to his brother Philip. By that time, they were usually pretty threadbare.

But many of David's outgrown coats or sweaters and trousers have likewise been passed along to a neighbor boy a couple of years younger than David.

You parents of an "only" child, may thus be compelled to buy it a new wardrobe every year.

WASTEFUL STYLISTS

Women's skirts were decreed as ultra short this past winter. And the reason was to force the ladies to buy entirely new outfits.

The designers also omitted a large hem in the skirts of deliberate intent. For next year they may again bring back long skirts.

And you purchasers of the present short skirts, will then be forced to discard yours entirely. For you can't let out any hem!

Such strategy helps increase sales of women's clothing, but is very wasteful of fabrics.

One reason why fashion designers don't like men's conservative tendency is the fact they can't compel the male sex to stampede as readily in the direction of some London or Paris designer's fancy.

350 High School Exhibits Prepared for Science Fair

The sixth annual Science Fair will be held Friday and Saturday in the Neillmeier Memorial Building at Oglethorpe University with approximately 350 exhibits by Georgia high school students on display.

Atlanta and virtually every other major city and many smaller communities will be represented, Dr. Arthur L. Cohen of the Oglethorpe biology department said Sunday.

Exhibits will be in four principal classifications - biological: Physical, with a range from radio to mathematics demonstrations; engineering, including models of power plants and waterworks, and public welfare, dealing with soil conservation and preventive medicine.

The exhibits represent projects by individuals, two or more students working as a team, and in some instances an entire high school class, Dr. Cohen said.

"The Science Fair has great educational value," said Dr. Cohen, "and it has helped greatly in discovering talent. In many cases, the talented student has won a scholarship. Business and industry help finance the projects."

The Friday hours are 8 a.m. to 10 p.m., and the Saturday hours, 8 a.m. to noon. The show is free.

Landslide in Italy

PESCARA, Italy, April 11 (AP)—A landslide caused indirectly by an earthquake has destroyed or damaged 22 homes in Castiglione a Casauria, on Italy's east coast. The big slide was set in motion after a recent minor earthquake damaged sewage drains in the village.

Missionary Urges: Free Indochinese

Communism cannot be stopped in Indochina unless the people are guaranteed their independence from French "imperialism," a Methodist missionary who spent 23 months as a prisoner of the Chinese says.

Rev. Stockwell

The missionary, the Rev. F. Olin Stockwell, told Emory University students that Indochina's people will not fight the Communists unless they are assured France will not take over their country again.

"The Indochinese no longer trust France," he declared, "and any deal with the French would have to be made through the United Nations or some intermediary."

A missionary in western China for 21 years, the Rev. Mr. Stockwell said he feels the United States' problem in the Far East is to help the people build healthy societies that will resist communism.

ONLY LEADERS WON

"So far, we as a people have not succeeded very well in winning the support of the people of the Far East, but only of their leaders," he said. "This is our mistake."

"We must realize that a strong economy in India is worth more than dozens of airfields on Indian soil," he continued. "Military methods may help for a while, but they will do no permanent good."

A victim of 14 months of solitary confinement and nine months of "brainwashing techniques," the Rev. Mr. Stockwell said his Communist captors admitted to him they could never take over a country unless a revolution had occurred or one was imminent.

STRAW TO GRASP

"Communism is acceptable only as a straw for sinking people to cling to, and its leaders know it," he asserted. "Therefore, we must do all we can to build up internal strength in the Far Eastern countries through aid instead of threatening the Communists with our military strength."

The missionary believes that his book, "With God in Red China," is the only published volume written in a Communist prison. He said he wrote 50,000 words of it on the margins of an anthology of poetry.

A native of Oklahoma, the Rev. Mr. Stockwell now lives in Chicago with his wife and son. He is on a speaking tour of the country under the auspices of the Methodist Board of Missions.

Halt Leprosy By Education, Expert Urges

Public education is the most important factor in the control of leprosy, the head of a Salvation Army leprosy colony in India says.

Senior Maj. Hilda Plummer, a native of Nottingham, England who considers America home, is in charge of a 200-bed leprosy hospital in Bapatla in the Andhra Province of India. She has served in Indian leprosariums almost 28 years.

Low standard of living and widespread ignorance and fear of the disease are responbible for almost 2,000,000 cases of leprosy in India, she said, while in the United States there are only about 1,500 cases.

EARLY DIAGNOSIS

There is a good chance of arresting a case of the disease caught in the early stages, she said, but because of fear and unwillingness to face public ostracism, most patients refuse to seek treatment until they can no longer hide the fact that they have leprosy—when it is often too late to arrest it, she said.

Some patients have been at Maj. Plummer's colony longer than 30 years. But with the new sulfa drugs few patients should ever have to be confined that long in the future, she said.

GREATEST PROBLEM

The Salvation Army maintains two other leprosariums in India, both in the United States of Travancore and Cochin, which accommodate a total of 600 patients.

The greatest problem of patients who have been released from the leprosy colony is their inability to find employment and adjust to a normal life, Maj. Plummer said. People must be educated to understand that the disease is contagious only in certain stages and a patient never is released while his case is contagious, she said.

Jennings Randolph Speaks Here Today

Jennings Randolph, assistant to the president of Capital Airlines and for 14 years a representative to Congress from West Virginia, will speak at the monthly luncheon meeting of the Transportation Club of Atlanta at 12:15 p.m. Monday at the Henry Grady Hotel.

His subject will be "A Look Into the Future."
